REPUBLICANS FORM FINANCE PLAN TO AVOID MONEY SCANDAL

Will Avoid Deficit As One Means Of Eliminating Repetition Of Sinclair Case; Nut Makes Rules.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Three additional measures had been evolved today by Republican campaign chiefs to avoid a repetition of the Sinclair Liberty bond transactions of the Harding campaign which brought ex-national chairman Will H. Hays before a senate investigating committee for examination.

These proposals, together with the previously announced intention of making periodical public statements of campaign contributions, are called the cardinal principles of the finance policy of the national committee. They are:

1. No deficit shall be permitted even if necessary to restrict campaign activities.

2. No solicitors collecting money on a commission basis will be employed.

3. Large contributions from individuals will be avoided to a large degree.

The general scheme of raising and expending about $4,000,000 for the campaign emanated from conferences which included national chairman Hubert Work, treasurer J. R. Nutt, Secretary Franklin Fort and eastern treasurer, Jeremiah Milbank.

"There will be no deficit," Nutt declared flatly. "If we haven't got the money the expenses will have to be held down. There will be no paid solicitors; we will depend entirely upon volunteer workers."

"While we have set no limit on contributions we shall use discretion and we will make a great effort to obtain one and five dollar subscriptions to our campaign fund."

Treasurer Nutt indicated a belief that $100,000 individual subscriptions, not uncommon in the past should be avoided.

The quiet Cleveland banker, whom some Republican chieftains say will make a national reputation, said this morning that he had no comment to offer other than that "so far as he had heard none would be present."

LITTLE INTEREST IN WAGE MEETING

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 2.—Little interest was manifested in the joint conference between mine union officials and operators to negotiate a mutually satisfactory wage scale for Ohio an hour before the session was scheduled to start here this morning at 10 o'clock.

Lee Hall, president of the Ohio district of union miners, refused to combat on the possible attendance, saying that he had no acceptance from any operator "because we didn't ask for them to notify us if they were coming."

George K. Smith, secretary of the Ohio Coal Operators' Association, said this morning that he had no comment to offer other than that "so far as he had heard none would be present."

SHERIFF KILLS TWO AND WOUNDS THIRD; BELIEVED THIEVES

Wounded Man May Recover; Two Women Being Held

RAVENNA, O., Aug. 2.—With a deep bullet wound in his chest, Ralph Brown, 27, was still in a hospital here today, the only survivor of three men who engaged in a gun battle with Jay R. Perry, Geauga county sheriff, and George Dussell, a deputy, yesterday morning.

Brown is said to have a fair chance to recover. Mrs. J. A. Sheeler, who says she is his mother, and Violet Smith were still held in the county jail today and no charges have been placed against them.

The sheriff and his deputy were searching for chicken thieves on Lover's Lane, near a highway, when they came on a parked automobile occupied by two women. While Dussell guarded the machine the sheriff continued his search alone.

Three men, whom he encountered, refused to heed his command to halt and knocked him to a ditch, he said. He then shot Brown and Harry Gipe, 23, killing the latter. Dussell killed Ira Clogston, 24, as he tried to escape in the automobile. All of the men and the two women are from South Newberry, Geauga county, but they formerly lived in Chambersburg, Pa., they said. The women denied that the party had stolen anything or intended stealing.

EXPENSIVE MUSIC AIDS POLITICIANS

DAYTON, O., Aug. 2.—Music for political parties in Dayton will sound more like "cold cash" jingling if the announcement made here today by Nate Heidelberg, president of the Dayton Musicians' Protective Association, means anything.

The minimum rate for a walking band has been fixed at $72 for a 16-man group to play an hour or less. It seems that it would be cheaper to use a truck for the horn tooters, as the rate for seven men if "hailed" is $31.50 an hour.

GOTHAM DRY TARGET

DRY CAMPAIGN WILL CENTER ATTACK ON ALLEGED OPEN BARS

Injunctions Will Be Demanded Is Lowman Promise

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Openly operated bars in New York City have become a national scandal, acting Secretary of the Treasury Seymour Lowman declared today in announcing that the cleanup drive on Broadway "has only just started."

The federal government has no intention of molesting the hip-flask toters or invading private homes but open bar rooms are a violation of the law and must go, according to Lowman.

"In proportion to the number in operation there have been fewer bars closed in New York than in Chicago, so far," Lowman said. "While the prohibition bureau and justice department are concentrating just now in New York, other cities throughout the country where there are open bars or where night clubs are openly violating the law, will receive adequate attention."

At the office of Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general in charge of prohibition, it was stated that the justice department is not operating exclusively against the New York night clubs and bars, but is prepared to make drives in all cities where evidence develops of big scale violations of the liquor laws.

The justice department was given an additional appropriation of $60,000 by the last congress for special activities in connection with the enforcement of the prohibition laws. Additional attorneys and other personnel to prepare the legal phases of dry cases have been employed.

The prohibition bureau started its investigation of the New York City situation about six months ago, Lowman disclosed. Special agents from dry general headquarters here augmented the forces operating under administrator Maurice Campbell of New York, and are co-operating with the United States attorney's office.

Officials said that enough evidence to padlock a large number of additional establishments along Broadway and upon which to base hundreds of criminal indictments is in the hands of the prohibition and justice department authorities.

"Raids, arrests and even jail sentences are not adequate to meet the New York situation," Lowman said. "It is necessary to close the night clubs and bars by injunction where the dry laws are violated flagrantly."

"We intend to push the campaign in New York and close by injunction every night club that does not abide by the law."

After the New York situation is cleared up the prohibition bureau plans to extend its activities to other cities. An important and fruitful series of raids and padlocking activities were completed sometime ago in Chicago, he said.

Lowman asserted that there is nothing of a political nature in recent activities of the dry unit, adding that enforcement is taking its normal course in view of the widespread violations of the law.

AUTOIST INJURED

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 2.—William Dugan, 40, Indianapolis, was in a serious condition here today, suffering a broken shoulder and possible fracture of the back, resulting from an auto crash last night on the National highway near Reynoldsburg.

John Miller, 45, his companion, suffered internal injuries and possible fractures.

Dugan told police he was driving west and was forced into a ditch to avoid crashing into the rear of another automobile.

CHALLENGE ACCEPTED

Packet Tom Greene Will Race Senator Cordill On Ohio River

CINCINNATI, Aug. 2.—The steamboat race between the packet Chris Greene and Senator Cordill on the Ohio River from Gallipolis to Pomeroy, O., scheduled for August 19, was called off today by Captain Greene, skipper of the boat, bearing his name, and winner of the contest with the Betsy Ann.

The Pittsburgh owner of the Senator Cordill had no more received the notice from Captain Greene, when a challenge was received from Captain Tom Greene in charge of a steamer bearing his name, for a race between Pittsburgh and Cincinnati.

DRY LEAGUE SPLIT

THREE HOVERING NEAR DEATH AFTER WILMINGTON AUTO CRASH

WILMINGTON, O., Aug. 2.—Three of the five persons injured in a head-on auto crash here yesterday afternoon are today hovering between life and death in a Wilmington hospital. Eight persons were in the two cars which collided.

The accident occurred, according to witnesses, when the machine driven by Lee Crone, Cincinnati at a 60-mile an hour rate, swerved and crashed with a machine driven by F. T. Bellis of Bradford, Pa., neither Mr. or Mrs. Bellis were injured although their machine was wrecked.

The injured are: Lee Crone and his wife, their son Robert, Mattie Crone, and Josie Strawcamp, all of Cincinnati. Mrs. Crone, Mattie Crone and Robert are not expected to live.

Witnesses say the Crone car was demolished, parts being strewn over the highway for nearly 150 feet. Another child of the Crones was reported to have been thrown clear of the wreckage into an adjoining field and uninjured other than a few bruises.

HOOVER RETURNS TO DUTIES OF NOMINEE AFTER AUTO OUTING

Candidate Believes Forecasts Must Be Conserved.

WOODLAND, Cal., Enroute to San Francisco With Hoover, Aug. 2.—Herbert Hoover went back to his duties as Republican nominee for President today with a firm conviction that the federal government and the states must take heroic steps to save the forests of America.

After a five-day vacation in northern California and southern Oregon, Hoover returns from a tour of the Pacific coast, a tour of redwood trees and a knowledge of forest conditions on the Pacific slope. He idled away all of yesterday on a 100 mile tour of forest and watersheds in the vicinity of Mount Shasta, the snow-topped peak of all Pacific coast mountains.

The candidate time and again halted his party to converse with forest rangers. He showed extraordinary interest in efforts to check forest fires and the government's activity in reforestation. He told one ranger he was disappointed with the small amount of reforestation undertaken in northern California. He learned incidentally that private lumber companies had reforested greater areas in the West than had the government.

The nominee was due to arrive in San Francisco at 9:30 this morning, to motor from there to his home in Palo Alto. He will resume work at once on his speech accepting the Republican presidential nomination, which will be delivered in Leland Stanford University Stadium August 11.

Hoover's last day in the mountains saw him fishing but half an hour. He arose with the dawn, drove ten miles across the mountains to McCloud and breakfasted at a lumber camp. Then he went to Mount Shasta's base, studied forest conditions, and then to Medicine Lake. His son, Allan Hoover, caught a twelve inch trout as soon as their lines were cast in the lake.

MISSING YACHT IS NOT HEARD FROM

SANTANDER, Spain, Aug. 2.—Ships searching for the missing American sailing yacht Azara have extended their efforts beyond the Bay of Biscay to the Atlantic, but no trace of the boat was reported today. Despite the continued stillness of the yacht, which was equipped by radio, stations on the north coast continue intermittent calls.

Anxiety over the yacht and the Americans on board, including one woman, has now grown into actual fear. The woman is the wife of the boat's steward.

FALLING GATE KILLS EIGHT

THOROLD, Ont., Aug. 2.—The death list in the Welland Canal disaster here stood at eight today. They were crushed to death when a massive steel gate, swinging to place over Lock Number Six, tore itself loose from an electric crane and fell to the bed of the canal where forty men were working.

Seventeen injured men, several of whom may die, were taken to a hospital in the nearby town of St. Catharines. The dead: W. Galaske and Samuel McMullan, of Thorold; L. Boccioletti, of Borroughs, Ont.; and W. C. Overhold, James McArthur, Joseph McArthur, Harold Smalka and Joseph Carrio, all of St. Catharines.

TAKE WHISKEY

CANTON, O., Aug. 2.—Police here believed today they had stemmed one source of Canton's liquor supply, following the arrest last night of Joseph Bartolomeo, 27, of Cleveland, who the officers say, was carrying 105 gallons of whiskey in an automobile. A watch has been maintained every night recently for liquor runners.

Hop, Step, Jump, men, final. 1,500 Meter Flat, men, final. 800 Meter Flat, women, final. 400 meter flat, men, second trials. Greco-Roman Wrestling, Fencing, Modern Pentathlon, Yachting.

ELECTION IN ROCKY MOUNTAINS WILL BE DECIDED ON LIQUOR

Manager Says Wet And Dry Fight Will Be Issue

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—An out-and-out wet and dry fight in the Rocky Mountain states will decide the presidential contest for that sector, according to a survey presented to the Democratic high command today by Fred W. Johnson, of Rock Springs, Wyoming, recently appointed director of the Salt Lake City regional headquarters.

Johnson told Chairman Raskob of the national committee that the Democratic prospects in the Colorado basin states are better this year than at any time since the second Wilson campaign in 1916.

The Salt Lake City headquarters will govern the campaign for Idaho, Montana, Utah, Wyoming, Colorado, Arizona, Nevada and New Mexico.

"There is more enthusiasm for Governor Smith in these states today," Johnson said, "than there was for either Cox or Davis the day before the election in 1920 and 1924."

"Smith's great appeal in the west is his liberality."

Asked if the charges lodged against Smith's voting record in the New York assembly had figured in the mountain states campaign, Johnson replied:

"They helped Smith."

Sen. Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, who was vice-presidential running mate with the late Sen. Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin on the third-party ticket in 1924, will win the Progressive vote from the Republican ticket throughout the entire territory, according to reports sent to Johnson's headquarters.

SMITH WILL CONFER WITH FARM LEADER

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Back from a brief vacation on Long Island, Governor Al Smith today was to make a bid for the votes of the farmers of the middle west. In his suite at the Biltmore hotel the governor was scheduled to give George N. Peek, of Moline, Ill., farm leader, a general outline of what he plans to do, in the event of his election to the presidency, to bring relief for the farmers.

The conference between the governor and Peek was arranged by John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee. Peek is chairman of the committee of twenty-two of the North Central States Agricultural Conference, and in this capacity, is looked upon as the official spokesman for the farmers of the middle west.

COOLIDGE VISITS IRON ORE RANGES

SUPERIOR, Wis., Aug. 2.—President Coolidge left here today for a tour of the great Missabe Iron Range of Minnesota, from whence comes half of the iron ore used by the entire nation.

Touring out from Hibbing and Virginia, Minn., the executive and his party were to be shown the largest open pit mine in the world and the largest white pine mill in the world, among other points of interest.

TWO ANTI-SALOON LEADERS DECLARE POLICIES IGNORED

"White List" Failure To Endorse Begg Causes Dispute.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 2.—Issuance of a "white list" of candidates endorsed by the Ohio Anti-Saloon League led today to a heated controversy within the ranks of the League.

Two leaders of the league were reported to have stated that Dr. E. J. Moore, superintendent, and F. L. Dustman, editor of the League's official newspaper, should be replaced with new leaders in view of their policy in endorsing certain candidates for office while failing to do this for other candidates also said to conform to the league's requirements and to have satisfactory records as drys.

N. C. Sherwood, of Fremont, and E. R. Root of Medina, were the League leaders who voiced objection to recent acts of Moore and Dustman. The spark that touched off their volleys was the failure to recognize James T. Begg, Sandusky, as an approved candidate, although his dry record is said to be above reproach.

Begg was listed among the candidates for governor who do not have the League's endorsement, either because they are unsatisfactory to that body or because definite information could not be obtained. The "White List" appeared over the signature of Dr. Moore.

It is the contention of Sherwood and Root that Moore and Dustman did not follow the instructions of the special League committee to remain neutral to dry candidates for governor.

RAIL OFFICER SHOOTS THREE

CLEVELAND, Aug. 2.—Thomas Lear, 49, a railroad detective, early today shot and killed his wife in their home here, probably fatally wounded his stepson, and then turned the gun on himself. He is reported near death in a hospital.

The tragedy is said to have resulted when the stepson, Frank Meyers, 25, asked Lear for money, the latter refusing.

Lear took her son's part in the argument, according to the report, and the pistol and shot them both.

At City Hospital, Meyers was reported to have two bullet wounds in his head and another near his heart, while Lear has two wounds in his chest. Neither is expected to recover. Mrs. Lear was killed instantly.

FIVE STEAMERS RUSH TO COURTNEY'S AID

OFF AZORE ISLANDS

Seaplane Not In Immediate Danger Is Report; Flyers Were Attempting 1800 Mile Hop To Newfoundland.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—A fleet of at least five trans-Atlantic steamships is rushing today to the aid of Capt. Frank T. Courtney and his three companions, whose seaplane was forced down into the ocean approximately 500 miles west of the Azores while attempting a 1,800-mile flight from Horta to Newfoundland.

The rescue fleet includes the President Hayes, Minnawaska, Columbus, Cedric and Celtic.

The liner Franconia notified British wireless stations that Courtney and his fellow flyers were in no immediate danger and that the Celtic and Cedric were going to their assistance.

The Radio Marine Corporation was advised through Chatham, Mass., wireless station that the Columbus, Minnawaska and President Hayes had changed their positions to give succor to the stranded airmen.

A radiogram to the Radio Marine at Cricolm at 7:45 a. m. E. S. T., Cricolm at 7:45 a. m. E. S. T., reported the Columbus on its way to the Courtney seaplane. At 9:10 a. m. E. S. T., the Penland sent a radiogram saying the Minnawaska and President Hayes were speeding to pick up the flyers.

Courtney used a Dornier-Napier flying boat or seaplane equipped with pontoons. The plane carried radio apparatus manned by an expert operator, E. W. Gilmour, of Glasgow. Before leaving the Azores the plane was carefully overhauled and the pontoons scraped to rid them of all superfluous weight.

The length of time that the plane could remain aloft was problematical depending upon the weather and water. In calm water, experts said, the plane might remain aloft indefinitely or until weakened by the battering of the mid-ocean waves.

Seafaring men pointed out that, if the plane came down approximately 500 miles west of Horta, it probably would soon be sighted by passing steamships. It was in the same region that Ruth Elder's plane was forced down last year while she and George Haldeman, her pilot, were attempting a flight from America to Europe. They were in sight of a Dutch tankship bound for a Texas port when they were forced down and were picked up immediately.

When the Courtney flying boat left the Azores it was heavily fueled, and, in addition to this weight, carried four persons, in addition to Courtney and the wireless operator the personnel on board included E. Hosmer, a Montreal banker and financial sponsor of the flight, and Fred Pierce, a mechanic.

The distance from the starting point to Newfoundland is approximately 1,800 miles. If Courtney were forced down where the Berengaria's radiogram indicated he had completed less than one-third of his journey.

While Courtney is an expert pilot he has been beset with ill luck ever since he began his trans-Atlantic attempt last year.

A trans-Atlantic race between Courtney and the Spanish round-the-world airman Ramon Franco appeared in prospect as both hoped off the same day. Franco, who left Cadiz, Spain, yesterday morning, was forced down at Huelva, Spain.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—The last message received here from Capt. Frank T. Courtney, printed by the Star today, was dispatched while the seaplane was still in flight. It was laconic, merely saying: "Outlook fair."

This message was received late last night. It is believed that radio trouble prevented the dispatch of further radiograms.

FORMER GOVERNOR OF KENTUCKY DIES

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 2.—William S. Taylor, 74, former governor of Kentucky, died at the Methodist hospital here early today after an illness of two months from bladder trouble.

Taylor had been in Indiana since shortly after the assassination of Governor Goebel of Kentucky. He fled to this state when authorities were held him in connection with the shadow of the state capital at Frankfort, Ky. Indiana officials, holding the view that Taylor could not obtain a fair trial in Kentucky because of political conditions there, refused to honor extradition requests.

Cambridge, O., Aug. 2.—Life imprisonment today had been pronounced upon Earl Valentine, 32, confessed slayer of his father-in-law and sister-in-law, Andrew Anderson and Mrs. W. H. Osborne, during an alleged family dispute.

Valentine also seriously wounded his wife, Eva, and his brother-in-law, W. H. Osborne, at the same time. Osborne was released from a hospital here Monday, having been confined since the shooting. A first degree murder charge is still pending against him for the death of his sister-in-law.

EIGHT KILLED IN OIL BLAST

VINCENNES, Ind., Aug. 2.—The death toll of the Indian Refining Company's still explosion at Lawrenceville, Ill., west of here rose to eight today with the deaths of six more of fifty-one injured men. Physicians feared that at least ten more of the injured would die.

The still exploded during a fire at the plant with a deafening roar and showered more than 150 fire fighters with burning oil. The men that were the most seriously hurt inhaled the flames.

Thirty-six of the injured were rushed to the Good Samaritan Hospital here while fifteen received treatment at Lawrenceville.

MAKE-UP

A Romance of the Footlights

BY ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY

©1928 CENTRAL PRESS ASSN. INC.

MEET THIS FIRST:
Janet Mary James, eighteen, sweet and clever and good, has an ambition to go on the stage because her mother, who died the night she was born, had been a famous opera star. In New York Janet meets Dr. Ballard Riley, who is known as a woman hater. Ballard dates her up, and Janet gets a lot of fun out of having a date with him. Janet meets Flavia Marlowe, Sir Henry Martindale and "Putty" Bigelow. Flavia, about fifty years old, is beginning to wrinkle and trying to hide it. She is wealthy, and has a studio in the Village. Flavia persuades Janet to leave a studio. It is Janet's first evening in her new home, and she is entertaining Flavia and her friends. Later there is a knock at the door, and Ballard Riley steps in.

In Flavia's words, Ballard threw a wet blanket on the party the minute he came in. After the guests depart, Ballard lectures Janet for taking up with the Vill. (Now Go On With the Story.)

CHAPTER XIV.

At that moment the door opened and Flavia sailed in, her Pekingese under one arm and a package under the other. Janet was suddenly struck with the way Flavia looked—old and worn and tired. There were circles under her eyes and wrinkles that the make-up could not hide.

Janet rushed to her and threw her arms around her. She felt a sudden rush of pity. Flavia dropped the dog and kissed her cheek.

"Well, good morning, Princess. I heard that man—wherever he was, he happens to be the best-looking man I have seen in an age—call you that last night. You've been holding out on Flavia, sweetie!"

Janet laughed and pushed Flavia to the divan.

"That's my one and only."

Flavia raised her brows and folded her hands.

"Yes—I thought you had something up your sleeve. Where did you meet him?"

"Oh, in the hospital when I got smashed into by the cab. He was my doctor. And I proceeded to date him up."

Flavia was amused. She pointed a finger at Janet and looked serious.

"Young-un, hhe is your fate! I see it in the stars. I can tell by the way you looked at him and the way he looked at you."

Janet was thrilled.

"Oh, my goodness, Flavia! How did he look at me? Tell me about it. Do you think he likes me?"

Flavia smiled wryly.

"Young men don't stay to reform young girls and see that they get to bed all right if they don't like them pretty well."

Janet's face flamed. It was almost as if Flavia knew he put her to bed. Flavia noticed the blush and hurried to correct the faux pas.

"Oh, honey, I don't mean he put you to bed. I mean he just waited around to make sure nobody else got generous and offered to."

Janet grinned foolishly and made a little face. Her voice was little.

"Flavia, how can a woman make a man care for her—I mean, love her a lot—always?"

Flavia's laugh was a rather shrill, hopeless one.

"Oh, Janet, you are so young, dear! Men don't love women always. They love them a little while—until someone else a little prettier and more attractive happens along. Don't believe all that rot about love lasting all the time. I don't want you to. It will hurt you too much when you find out it is all a lot of bunk."

Janet stared at Flavia in amazement. She was serious. Her eyes were hard and her voice cold. She was not fooling. Janet felt a sinking sensation about her heart. She didn't want to believe that. Could it be true?

Flavia reached over and took her hand.

"Listen, Janet. Take love where you find it while you can get it. Don't go through the best years of your life with your head in the stars and your heart on your sleeve. I did—and I'm—I'm—her voice broke. "Well, I'm a wreck, that's all."

Janet put her arms around Flavia and held her tightly.

"Why, Flavia, why do you talk like that? You are a beautiful woman, and you have lots of money and friends. You sound as though you were through—or had something terrible happen to you."

Flavia's voice was hollow.

"I have had plenty of things. And I'm telling you if you care for this stunning man, grab him while the grabbing is good—get all you can of love and life—but don't let it hurt you. Beat life to it. If you don't believe it is real and lasting it can't hurt so much. Always keep one eye open, Janet."

"Don't you believe in marriage—and children and things like that?" Janet's question was a plea.

Flavia stiffened.

life to live over again I wouldn't marry the best man alive."

Janet was horrified. She pulled away and stared until Flavia laughed.

"My goodness, how shocked and serious you look." She took her hand and patted it.

"Janet, you think you are in love with this Riley, don't you?"

Flavia sank back on the divan. "Well, darling, you're hopeless! I see I can't give you any good advice. I must run along and I'll drop in this evening, maybe. Meanwhile, I leave you to your thoughts—or thought, rather. Well, anyway, you picked out a handsome devil, which is more than I ever did. Love was always blind where I was concerned."

When Flavia left, Janet sank in to a chair and stared at the floor, lost in her thoughts. Her affection for poor Flavia was stronger than ever. She felt that she must have suffered a great deal to have acquired such a misguided angle to life.

Flavia sent Lotus Flower up in the afternoon to help Janet clean

the studio. It needed it badly. Lotus, who was very fond of Janet because she was so beautiful, sat her in a chair and refused to allow her to work. Lotus was picking things up when she smiled her oriental grin at Janet's protests.

"All right, Misses. You help Lotus Flower. Play piano."

For an hour Janet played and sang for the little Chinese while she worked. There was worship in the dark, slanted eyes, as they followed Janet's beautiful hands over the keys. When the work was finished she stood beside the piano, eyes downcast and little hands folded. Janet looked up and laughed.

"Why, Lotus, you look blue."

She shrugged her shoulders and sighed.

"Oh, me want make pity melody. Lotus one stick-in-mud."

Janet caught her hands and laughed until Lotus caught the spirit and laughed, too—something she very rarely did. Then Janet sat her down on the bench and taught her "I Love to Boys and the Boys Love Me." She was amazed at the clever way in which Lotus Flower learned. In fifteen minutes she was playing it perfectly.

Janet had made one friend for life. From that time on Lotus would have laid down her life for her. Her friendship was so mean a great deal to Janet in the months to come.

Janet took a nap during the tea hour, and had just finished her bath and dressed, when the bell rang. She was dumbfounded when Putty Bigelow came sailing in as though he had been calling on her for years. She didn't like the idea. Putty was funny and amusing. But she couldn't like him. There was something weak about his chin and eyes—"Putty" was a good nickname for him. She thought suddenly that he looked like putty. Putty face!

There was no doubt in her mind but that Putty would try to get fresh. She couldn't imagine him dropping in just to say "how-do-you-do." He grabbed Janet around the waist and lifted her up.

"Hello, sister. I'm heaven's sweet answer to all your supplications. Aren't you glad to see me?"

Glorious performance

Precision built in this Great Hudson

The great performance that marks Hudson out among all fine cars, with stellar brilliancy, is not alone in the genius of its design, but in a manufacturing execution that also stands at the head of the industry.

The hand-matching of all pistons is a detail in this precision manufacture, that is typical of every operation in building this greatest of all Hudsons.

Hudson leadership of mode extends to every detail and marks a new Hudson supremacy, as definite as its mechanical dominance through the Super-Six principle, and its companion invention which set today's standard for motor performance.

Every item of finish, construction and equipment expresses value as tangibly as its great chassis qualities. Come and examine the new Super-Sixes. They will give you an entirely fresh view of motor values.

She joined the Ohio delegation at Chicago and the delegation toured the Yellowstone, Yosemite regions and visited Lake Louise, Banff and other Canadian resorts. Mrs. Cosley has been gone since the last of June.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water softens the dry food waste and moves it gently, through, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderly at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall Drug Store.

FAIR RECEIPTS FOR WEDNESDAY EXCEED 1927 OPENING DAY

Undaunted by threatening weather, between 10,000 and 15,000 people are estimated to have attended the 1928 Greene County Fair Wednesday.

The estimated gate receipts for Wednesday total $300 more than receipts for the corresponding day last year, according to Brant U. Bell, treasurer of the fair board.

Weather conditions were ideal Thursday, which is the "big" day of the exposition, and the attendance was expected to reach higher than 20,000 people.

A majority of Xenia business houses, following a yearly custom, declared Thursday afternoon a half-holiday and all the shoe stores, furniture stores, clothing stores and hardware firms remained closed, to permit employees an opportunity to patronize the exposition.

Public offices in the Court House were closed the entire day.

ALPHA MAN EXHIBITS PICTURES AT SHOW

Clyde Overholser, Alpha artist, exhibited two pictures at the recent show held by the Independent Artists' Association, in New York.

One of his pictures was "The Tail Race" which has won favorable comment. Mr. Overholser is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Overholser, Alpha, and has exhibited his pictures at previous New York shows.

DAYTON PHYSICIAN SPEAKS TO MEDICOS

The Rev. Mr. McMichael discussed the various standards and outlooks of individuals and interestingly handled his subject.

He is a former resident of Cedarville and attended Xenia Theological Seminary.

PLAN RACE MEET
RAVENNA, O., Aug. 2—A thirty-day horse racing meet, to compete with the program now in progress at the Bainbridge track, on the Geauga-Cuyahoga County line, is planned by a group of turf devotees here, it became known today. The track at the Portage County fair grounds would be used, according to the proposal.

PARK BUILDING CORNERSTONE WILL BE LAID FRIDAY, AUG. 10

The cornerstone for the new memorial auditorium building under construction in Shawnee Park will be laid with appropriate ceremony at 7 o'clock Friday night, August 10, according to an announcement by the Greene County Home-Coming Association Thursday.

Plans for the exercises, which have not been entirely perfected, were left in charge of Catharine Greene Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, at a meeting of the Home-Coming Executive Committee Tuesday night.

Articles to be sealed in the corner box in the stone will include a Bible by the W. C. T. U.; a flag presented by Catharine Greene Chapter, D. A. R.; a history of Shawnee Park and a printed list of small donors to the building fund.

According to present plans, Mrs. DeEtta Wilson will deliver the principal speech. It is also planned to have a lawn fete and a band concert after the cornerstone laying ceremony.

Home-Coming officials point out that Xenians should feel free to contribute money to the building fund as the list of donors will not be read publicly. Donations should be made as soon as possible to either T. H. Zell or M. L. Wolf in order that all names may appear on the list.

Work on construction of the building is being rushed in order to have the auditorium complete for use during the Home-Coming.

NAT HUNTER WILL RIDE DONKEY

Conforming with a promise made to County Commissioner A. E. Beam, N. N. Hunter, Jamestown auto dealer and sportsman, has agreed to ride "Midnight," a mammoth, black donkey in the live stock parade, which will be held at 12 o'clock noon Friday at the Greene County Fair.

Commissioner Beam declared he would furnish the donkey if Hunter would agree to ride it in the parade. Hunter called the bluff.

COACH IS ILL

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 2.—"Pooch" Donovan, veteran coach of the American Olympic team, who is gravely ill of heart trouble, is on his way home today. Accompanied by Eddie Parrell and Dr. O'Brien of Philadelphia, he sailed from Rotterdam aboard the liner Volendam last night. Friends fear he will not survive the trip.

gust primary, which gave equal approval to Cooper and James Begg, of Sandusky.

"Mrs. Florence Richards (president) and Mrs. S. F. Edwards of Leipsic, legislative representative for the Ohio W. C. T. U., following the annual conference at Lakeside two weeks ago, prepared a sample marked ballot based on answers to questionnaires sent out by the organization," the Cooper statement read. "This ballot gave the organization preference to Cooper, as it was explained that both Begg and Turner evaded the questionnaire. Friends of Mrs. Richards and Mrs. Edwards charged today that the marked ballots were deliberately altered by Mrs. Horatio Van Kirk, state secretary of the organization."

BALLOTS ALTERED COOPER REVEALS

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 2.—Cooper, For-Governor headquarters here issued a statement today on the Ohio W. C. T. U. endorsements of candidates subject to the August primary.

Without plenty of rich, red blood, there can be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or beautiful, healthy women.

When you get your blood cells back up to normal, that sluggish, let-down feeling, loss of appetite, rheumatism, boils, pimples, and skin troubles disappear. You get hungry again, sleep soundly, solid flesh takes the place of that which was once flabby. You feel

Do you enjoy your food?

If you do not enjoy your food it is a true sign that you are losing your appetite. And when your appetite is "gone" it means you haven't the resistance to ward off diseases. Loss of appetite is only a symptom. General weakness pervades the entire body. There is no desire to work or play.

Rich, red, blood builds and sustains

Your physician will tell you that lowered vitality is the result of an insufficient supply of red blood cells—those vitalizing elements in the blood that build and sustain the body.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

GOOD NEWS—As cold waters to a thirsty soul, so is good news from a far country.—Prov. 25:25.

DEMAND FOR MORE SHIPS

America's hope of developing a merchant marine service of the first rank does not lie in carrying a greater share of our European commerce in American ships or in the building of more fast trans-Atlantic liners. It depends upon the building of a host of prosaic freighters to carry our manufactures to South America and Asia, bringing back the raw imports which are becoming increasingly important in industrialized America.

This is the point stressed by Edward P. Warner, assistant secretary of the navy, in a study of America's economic development and foreign trade presented in the Review of Reviews.

Mr. Warner points out that America is the only modern nation to become highly industrialized without developing a merchant fleet capable of carrying at least half of its foreign commerce, a situation ascribed to post-war conditions which have made it necessary for other nations to come to us for their imports.

Europe today is the only continent with which we do not need to increase the shipping carried under our own flag. Mr. Warner points out, because "our wheat and cotton are needed badly enough in Europe to insure that European vessels will call for them."

But the rest of the world presents a different picture. With all other continents, especially South America, we do essentially one sort of business. We are exporters of complete manufactures, importers of raw stuff. In that business, if our interests are to be safeguarded, we must have more ships.

OUTLAW AMONG NATIONS

The United States has proposed to the leading civilized nations of the world that war as a method of settling disputes be hereby and is outlawed. The proposal will be accepted, within ten days. The Republican national convention at its last meeting adopted the platform which endorses "the outlawry of war" specifically.

Now this won't stop war automatically. Bootleg wars will be held for 100 years among the little fellows and maybe somewhat among the big fellows. Yet from the time that American treaty is signed, for the first time in human history war loses caste. War will be an outlaw just as the murderer, the thief, the robber, or the saloon is an outlaw. And while the absolute prohibition of war won't come until the hearts of men are softened and the heads of men are enlightened, still this forward step toward outlawing war by treaty is the biggest thing that has happened on this planet in the way of bringing peace on earth among men of good will to humanity—the biggest thing that has happened for 2,000 years.

PAYING THE PENALTY

There were no unsolved murder mysteries in London in 1927, a checkup of the cases discloses. There were 27 killings, and in every case the killer was caught and given the legal punishment, with the exception of ten murderers who are listed as suicides in jail. Few American cities can show such a record.

Peggy Joyce is taking her fifth husband. But in all the printed comment on the case no optimist has seemed to be willing to write the last line of the story, "And they lived happily ever after."

Highway congestion will do more to sell airplanes than the best sales talks that can be devised.

The Way of the World

By GROVE PATTERSON

THE "TALKIES"

How is your voice? Are you able to manage it? Not much chance in Hollywood for you without a good voice. The "talkies" or talking movies have upset the situation in the movie colonies. Acting used to be enough to get by in the movies. Now good acting and good voice control are required.

THE 400,000

If there were 400,000 marbles in a barrel how much would you bet that you could pick out the lucky one in a single reach? Your chance would be only one in 400,000. Three hundred and ninety-nine thousand and nine hundred and ninety-nine chances would be against you. And yet, in a gigantic lottery which was taking the pennies of school children, the chance to win was only one in 400,000. What folly to gamble!

TRADITION RULES

In college and university education tradition too often is the dominant element. The fact that colleges generally are kept remote from business areas is due to the asceticism of the scholars of the Middle Ages who were tired of the world and wanted to get away from it. The college should be located where it is most efficient. Possibly a broad campus is the best site. But don't be too sure.

ANOTHER CUSTOM

In Holland it is out of the question for a man to appear in public without his coat on. It is contrary to custom. Imagine the surprise of the Hollander who arrives in this country in the middle of the summer and see thousands coatless! Of course, he, too, soon will conform with the group and put comfort first.

DOLLAR FRIENDSHIP

"Without the friendship of newspaper editors I don't think that any business can succeed." Probably the man who said this has the correct view, but how can the man who abuses a friendship retain his self-respect? Wouldn't you rather do without luxuries than "sponge" them off someone who has confidence in your integrity?

NEWS COMMENT and VIEWS

The Diary of a New Yorker

by CLARK KINNAIRD

NEW YORK. — Divorcees are obtainable in New York on only one charge, and there are scores of private detective agencies which specialize in obtaining divorce evidence. "Frame-ups" are not infrequent, although most of the agencies refuse to accommodate the demands of clients for such "evidence."

The majority of clients of these agencies are women. The manager of one of the bureaus told me that usually when men seek his services they appear ashamed of themselves for doing it, and if the agency fails to find evidence unfavorable to "the woman in the case" most of them are relieved and happy. But most women are disappointed when the agency fails to rake up evidence against a man, and either are desirous of further investigation, or are plainly determined to take the matter to some other agency.

Motion picture cameras now are used by the agencies in obtaining evidence. Films taken by operatives stationed outside of hotels, apartment-houses or road-houses usually are more satisfactory to clients than any amount of verbal or documentary evidence.

The head porter of one of New York's hotels resigned recently to take over the management of another hotel which he has leased for 15 years. Tips made him wealthy.

The head waiter in another hotel provided the money with which a financially involved industrial magnate made a comeback in Wall Street. The magnate had been one of the waiter's most generous tippees.

One of the principal owners of a syndicate which has the check-room concessions in night clubs, theatres, cafes, etc., has amassed a million out of his dividends and investments he made with them. And, more and more folks are getting the idea that they HAVE to tip.

I'm one of New York's champion non-tippees. I passed the final test which admitted me to an exclusive club called "The No-Never Men," when I lunched at the Savoy-Plaza and departed without having tipped the waiter, cigar-girl, head waiter, phone-girl, door-opener and carriage-driver. Having survived their glowers, I feel prepared for anything. I'm not even afraid to go to Chicago.

Nearly a third of the men seen in Manhattan streets in daytime are hatless. The number of persons who are foregoing top-hieces is reflected in the frantic efforts of stores to get rid of their summer headgear. Straw-hat sales started sooner than ever this season, and the low prices made it plain that Mr. Abraham Vogel's labors have not been in vain.

Mr. Vogel is the founder and chief crusader in the "Hatless Manhattan" movement. He speaks nightly in Union Square, promising converts freedom from baldness, better health, and savings of from 50 cents to two dollars a week in tips and hat costs.

New York department stores are darker in Summer than in winter. The number and size of electric lights is reduced in order to make the store seem and possibly feel cooler.

I am giving you today a menu suitable for either a guest luncheon or a home one for an especially festive occasion. The chicken may be left over and used with veal or ham, or it may be cooked especially for this dish.

Today's Recipes.

Chicken and Peas—Stir into two cups of well seasoned chicken stock two tablespoons gelatin softened in one-half cup cold water. When this begins to stiffen stir in one cup cooked chicken chopped fine, and one cup cooked peas or asparagus. Dip stuffed olives in some of the aspic and place in a mold at intervals; then by spoonfuls place in some of the chicken aspic, so as not to displace the aspic. Pour in the remainder. Chill and when ready to serve slice down. This is an excellent luncheon dish and a nice way in which to use leftover chicken or veal. A little ham added will make this more tasty.

Icing—The following is a delicious and attractive icing and filling which is very easy to make: Two cups confectioner's sugar, three tablespoons melted butter, four tablespoons fresh orange juice. Mix sugar, butter and orange juice and beat with spoon till smooth. Spread at once.

Velvet Cream
(Mrs. Mary Morton's Daily Tested Recipe.)
One quart milk, one-half box gelatin, three-fourths cup sugar, three eggs. Put the milk in a double boiler, add sugar and gelatin. When hot add beaten yolks of eggs and cook until gelatin has dissolved and it looks like a thin custard (about 10 minutes), then take from stove and add at once the beaten whites of eggs, flavor

How to Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

THE ORIGIN AND DEVELOPMENT OF BEAUTY LORE

Probably Eve, with all the Garden of Eden at her disposal, was the first woman to find out how the simple elements of Nature brought health and strength to the body and beauty to the skin and hair. Not that we have any records of Eve, nor any certified notions which claim the ancestry of her own hand—but it does seem that turning back the pages of cosmetic history first by tens of years and then by hundreds, we cannot find a single period of existence when the art of blending herbs and manufactured essences was totally unknown.

Usually, the only recipes that were known and practiced were those passed down by word of mouth, and added to or detracted from generation to generation.

I cannot find any "beginning" at all to the use of cream. I do believe that it is quite possible it was used first in a semi-corrective way as an emollient—perhaps for cuts or scalds. Grease and fat, invariably of animal origin, has been—and still is, for that matter—used among the savage tribes to smooth out their bodies, first as a precaution against capture, and second as a purely beautifying agent. A highly oiled skin is a determining factor of beauty among many African, Australian and New Zealand tribes.

Of course, this use of cream and oil is purely savage—but undoubtedly we, too, were once purely savage, and perhaps, as civilization dawned, we carried from the old era into the new, certain remembrances with us. And perhaps among these memories was the knowledge that cream softened the skin, enhanced its color and texture—made it beautiful and young. Then bit by bit new knowledge augmented the old.

Homely and interesting additions were made to the first base of animal fat. Cucumber juice, lemons, eggs, essences of flowers and herbs all crept into the original product, and creams of every kind were hawked through the cobbled streets of the old world. Then came a manufacturing era—and in a short time it began to affect the age-old industry.

Diet and Health

Bananas

You have heard the story of the little boy who was asked by his teacher how to spell a certain word? He spelled it correctly, and the teacher responded automatically: "That's good." The little boy tersely remarked: "Gee, teacher, that's mor'n good; that's perfect."

X. wants to know if the banana is a good food. I feel like answering her as this little boy did his teacher.

Bananas have come into their own in recent years. They used to be in disrepute, especially for children, but that was because they were given in an unripe state and not thoroughly masticated. Thoroughly ripe bananas (when they are thoroughly ripe they have specks of brown on their skin) are not only very delicious, but they contain a carbohydrate or sugar that is one of the most easily digested, and they are a good source of lime and iron.

In a certain intestinal disease—celiac disease—in which children cannot digest the usual starchy foods, it is found that they can digest ripe bananas, and these are given to the exclusion of all other starches. Children (and adults) suffering from other intestinal upsets can also take bananas when they can't take other starches. Infants as young as four or five months can take pureed ripe bananas.

The caloric value of the banana, weight for weight, is higher than other fruits, so it is a splendid rousing food. For example, one banana weighing 5½ ounces, is 100 C. as compared to one fresh apple weighing 7½ ounces, same number of calories.

For those interested, we have a list of books on dietetics, compiled in our article on Balanced Diet. The column rules for obtaining material we offer are to be self-addressed, stamped envelope with a teaspoon vanilla. If you plan to serve it for lunch make day before. Serve with cream. Price 2 cents in coin and a full for all articles except the reducing and gaining pamphlet, for which 10 cents in coin, in addition to the self-addressed, stamped envelope are necessary.

Water Drinking
E.—Water comprises about two-thirds of the body weight. It is necessary for all of the body fluids and secretions, and it is a part of every cell in the body. It holds the food elements in solution until they are deposited where they are needed, and carries away waste products.

About two and one-third quarts of water are eliminated normally from the lungs, kidneys, skin and intestines daily, and we must supply this loss. The normal should take from four to eight glasses a day. In addition to that which is taken in the food. Children's bodies have a higher percentage of water than adults' so they need more water in proportion to their weight than do adults.

It is a good practice to have regular times for water drinking, say one or two glasses before breakfast (this can be taken moderately hot if liked) and one or two between meals. Children should always have some between meals and especially during hot weather.

Yes, water drinking at meals is all right. E., unless excessive amounts are taken and unless it is used to wash the food down. Ice water and other ice drink are permissible in moderation; they should be taken slowly, for if taken too rapidly and in too large amounts they may cause severe intestinal disturbances, both in children and in adults.

Needless to say, all water must be pure.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Peters cannot diagnose nor give personal advice. Your questions, if of general interest, will be answered in the column in turn. Requests for articles must be accompanied by a fully self-addressed stamped envelope and two cents in coin for each article to cover cost of printing and handling. For the pamphlet on reducing and gaining, ten cents in coin with fully self-addressed stamped envelope. Address Dr. Peters in care of this paper.

Kellygrams

By FRED C. KELLY

If Senator Curtis becomes vice president, my most vivid picture of him will still be of a charmingly agreeable man seated in his private office, feet on a desk, recalling the days when he made his living by driving race horses. I remember distinctly how feelingly he spoke about an old horse he once drove named Lop-Eared John.

Now that Curtis is in the race for vice president, it seems strange that so little has been said in the public prints about his days in the harness races.

Funny how we always like a man better when we know that he once engaged in pursuits not requiring dignity!

OAK PARK, Ill. — "Sarge," cried Policeman Fremont Nestor, congratulate me! I've got a 12-pounder!"

"Fine," said the sergeant, an old fisherman, "is it speckled?"

"I should say not; it's kind of reddish, though."

"Gonna have it stuffed?"

"Stuffed?" cried the horrified cop. "What are you talking about?"

"Fish," answered the sergeant, "aren't you?"

"Fish me eye," retorted Nestor, "I'm talking about my new baby boy!"

Bird That Couldn't Go Straight
"Widdle watched that bird running in circles as long as he could stand it!" Bobolink chuckled.

"What a silly, silly bird," cried wife. "Bob, let's fly down and tell him what to do. He seems to have gone crazy with fright. If only he would turn and make for the woods instead of chasing madly about in that fashion he could get away."

"Come on, let's warn him. The two-Legs hasn't a bang stick!" He can't hurt us."

"Now there are times when my wife has bright ideas and this was one of them. In a second I saw the sense of her suggestion and together we dropped down toward the frightened bird. But we were just too late. The man on the horse raised his arm.

"For a second we thought he was going to throw something at us and we dodged. But we needed a strange sound, from the man's open hand shot something just what we did not know—that went singing over us. Then, before one could say 'Kingfisher,' the poor bird we had been trying to aid crumpled up and went down in a heap.

"Now we saw what the man had thrown. It was a rope with a loop on the end of it that had caught the bird about the neck and pulled him to the ground where he now lay gasping for breath. And would you believe it, that cruel Two-Legs rode off and left him there! Wife and I flew down. The poor bird had lost his breath. He could only gasp:

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON.—Representative Clarence J. McLeod, reports lots of promises from other representatives, to help him next winter, with his bill to take 24 congressmen away from 16 states whose populations have not grown much in the last 18 years, and give them to 12 states whose populations have grown very fast.

It is the celebrated "reapportionment bill."

In case it passes, there no longer will be a rural majority in the house of representatives. It will become a city majority.

It will be a momentous change if it occurs, for an urban lower house of congress is likely to have very different notions from a rural one.

However, it would not be safe to plunge too heavily on McLeod's bill. He has thought he had it almost passed several times before, or each time it has been found in the waste basket when congress adjourned.

Still, Clarence has been working for it like a horse all this recess. Who knows!

Theoretically the house of representatives consist of a member for every so many inhabitants. The "founding fathers" carved out the first set of districts, on the basis of an even break all 'round. But they foresaw that population's growth would not be uniform everywhere—that some places would fill up faster than others. Thus, presently, the original arrangement would not be fair.

So they provided for a reapportionment every ten years—after each census.

This was all right, so long as it only meant increasing the number of representatives, but the reapportionment following the 1910 census brought the total up to 435, which was generally agreed was enough. In other words, the next time one state got more representation, some other state would have to accept less.

Now, no state likes to have its congressional representation cut down. No four Missouri congressmen, for instance, care to give up their seats in order to give Michigan four more.

There was another difficulty—The 1910 census gave the farm voters a majority in the house of representatives. Due to the country's industrialization, the 1920 census would have turned the majority over to city folks. The farmers did not like this idea.

Consequently, when reapportionment was proposed in the early 1920's, there was a hitch. The senate did not particularly object—there are two senators per state anyway. Any change was bound to cost some representatives' jobs. They balked.

There the proposition has stuck ever since.

It is an unconstitutional situation, but what of it?—there is no penalty, and no means of forcing it, if there were. The whole house of representatives, cannot be slammed in jail.

Congressmen from states where growth has been rapid recently, are mad as a hornet—especially, Congressman McLeod. He is from Detroit, which has grown like a weed and ought to have six representatives whereas it has only two.

Reapportioned—Alabama, Kansas, Louisiana, Maine, Massachusetts, Nebraska, North Dakota, Tennessee, Vermont and Virginia would lose a representative each; Iowa, Indiana, Kentucky, Mississippi; and New York, two each; Missouri, four.

Arizona, Connecticut, Florida, Montana, North Carolina, Oklahoma and Washington would gain one apiece. New Jersey and Texas, two apiece; Ohio, three; Michigan four; California, six.

The others would be stationary but many of the big cities are entitled to gain the rest of their state's expense. Chicago and Detroit have even talked about seceding—a bluff, of course, but it shows how sore they are.

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

THOSE "BOSSY PEOPLE"

There are people — we all know them—who assume superior airs and seem to think it is their prerogative to tell others what to do — to "boss" them. Now no one likes to be "bossed," and consequently these people are usually unpopular. Men particularly detest this type of woman, and no matter how pretty and charming a girl is, if she is of this arrogant type, she will usually lack admirers. A girl who acknowledges that she has more than a tendency in this direction writes the following letter:

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I am a girl 20 years old. I am considered fair looking and have a fairly good disposition, but I do not seem to be popular with the opposite sex. A few months ago I met a man four years my senior. He gave me a wonderful time and sent me beautiful presents such as flowers, books and candy. Then he told me he loved me repeatedly, and wanted to give me an engagement ring for my birthday. My parents did not approve of him because he was of a different nationality. He was American, but of Italian descent.

Never told him this, but acted very superior toward him. Despite the fact he kept sending me gifts and taking me to the best places of amusement. Finally one night we had a terrible argument over me "bossing" him around. I told him that I thought it was too serious and we had better not see one another any more. He couldn't bear this at first, but I insisted, but by the time we reached home I agreed to let him call on me the following Wednesday night. During that time he sent me a letter telling me the real facts how ungenial I had been, which was really true. He ended his letter telling me how dear I was to him. I became very angry and wrote him that everything was at an end. That was seven weeks ago. I haven't seen or heard from him since. Now, Mrs. Lee, do you think he could have loved me as much as he stated? Do you think he could have forgotten me so soon? Do you think he will call eventually? If he does call should I have my parents interfere or account of nationality? I find now that I like him much more than I did when I was going with him, because I know I imposed on him and he catered to me in every way.

"P. S. Could you tell me why I don't seem to be able to get a boy friend easily?"

C. B.

To answer your question first, I presume it is because of this very trait of "bossiness" and unappreciation. You are partly to realize your fault, but not entirely. Now as to nationality. He can't help it. You know and why we native born Americans take this arrogant attitude toward those of other nationalities is a puzzle. All of us came originally from some of the so-called Indians. And you certainly did not show any superiority of mind or manners. If you, dear, in accepting his gifts and treats and then acting in a "superior" manner? If you really care for him and want him to come back, write him a very humble letter, telling him that you realize how unbecomingly your conduct has been and asking his forgiveness. Do you want him back that much? Love is too precious a thing to be treated as you treated him, and I don't believe you could kill it in such a short time.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: Am a girl of 23 years, going with a boy two years my senior. He has a very good occupation and insists we get married. My mother approves, but my father says I am too young and should wait until I am least 30, although he says he will consent, but not with a good will. Now, Mrs. Lee, I want to obey my parents. Will he be doing wrong by marrying before I am 30?"

"HELEN."

I should say you are just the right age to be married. Helen, and as you are of age you may do so if you wish. Ask your father how he would have liked to have waited several years before marrying when he was engaged to your mother.

TASSING THE TINAMOU

looking for some one it will be Mr. Elegant Tinamou, my husband. Will you tell him what happened to me and warn him to be careful?

"If only I had learned to run in a straight line instead of in circles, Two-Legs would never have lassoed me. Oh, dear me, I can't breathe! Goodbye, little strangers. I am going to sleep. I shall never wake up! Don't let Two-Legs find you here when he comes back, for me or he will harm you!"

Pacer Lowers Track Record Opening Fair Races

BECKY BEAL TRAVELS MILE IN 2:06 1-4 TO WIN STAKE AND CUP

Grand Circuit Mare Breaks Record That Stood Ten Years; Fast Time And Straight-Heat Winners Mark Wednesday Speed Card.

By PHIL FRAME

Straight heat victories featured the opening-day card on the Southwestern Ohio Short-horse Circuit meet at the Greene County Fair Wednesday afternoon.

Becky Beal, fleet pacer owned and driven by J. C. Mitchell, Mechanicsburg, O., won the 2:14 pacing stake, feature event on the program, in straight heats, and in taking the first heat in the fast time of 2:06 1-4, established a new track record for the Xenia half-mile oval.

The grand circuit horse took the first heat in a driving finish and came back to win the second in 2:07 3-4 and the third in 2:08 1-4.

The previous track record of 2:07 1-4 was set by George Volo, a pacer, in a spring meet here about ten years ago.

The stake event was worth $1,000 and the winning owner was also presented with a loving cup offered by the Lula Faye Restaurant, Xenia.

Mose Direct, owned and driven by William Pavy, Sabina, took second money and Patchen Boy, of the stable of J. W. Miller, Newark, O., third place. Five horses comprised the field and all were grand circuit racers.

Becky Beal came from behind in the first and third heats to win but led all the way in the second, breaking Mose Direct's previous record.

Joe Dillard, owned and driven by O. W. Crane, agt., Marion, O., won a straight-heat victory in the 2:22 pace for a $300 purse, opening number on the Wednesday bill. The winner had an easy time of it and little opposition was supplied by the remaining field of eight.

The juveniles had their inning in the second event on the program, three-year-old and under stake trot, won in straight heats by Robin Hood, of the stable of H. M. Parshall, agent, Urbana, Pa.

Parshall also drove. The race was valued at $500 and in addition the winning owner received a loving cup donated by the C. A. Weaver clothing store.

Two scratches reduced the field to four starters and the winner was easily the class of the quartet, Bell Evans finished second each trip, Jack Evans third and Lillian McKinney fourth. The winner's best time was 2:15 1-4 in the final heat.

Thursday's program included the 2:22 trot for a $300 purse; the three-year-old and under stake pace for $500, and the 2:14 trot for a $400 purse.

The card for Friday is even more attractive. The program opens with the 2:18 pacing trot, worth $1,000, followed by the 2:18 pace for $300 and the $400 Free-for-all pace.

The summaries:

2:22 pace, Purse $300: Joe Dillard, g. g. by Roop Dillard (Crane) 1 1 1 Otto May, g. g. by General May (Pifer) 4 2 3 Easter Lily, (Parshall) 2 3 5

2:14 pace, Purse $400: Martinus (Parshall) 2 3 5 Rudy Cochato, h. m. by Cochato (Fenner) 5 4 2

2:18 pace, Purse $1,000: Jack Evans, b. g. by Oliver Evans (Hagler) 3 3 3 Lillian McKinney, b. m. by Arion McKinney (Gordon) 4 4 4

Scratched: Joe Watts and Grey Stone.

Time: 2:19 1-4; 2:21 1-4; 2:15 1-4; 2:14 pace, Purse $1,000 (Stake): Becky Beal, b. m. by Peter Scott (Mitchell) 1 1 1

2:22 trot, Purse $500: Mose Direct, h. g. by Golden Direct (Pavey) 2 2 2 Patchen Boy, b. g. by Baron Chan (Cartnell) 3 4 3

2:18 pace, Purse $300: Lecco Gratton Jr., b. g. by Lecco Gratton (Parshall) 4 3 4 Hazel M. Direct, b. m. by Empire Direct (Henrick) 5 5 4

Time: 2:06 1-2; 2:07 3-4; 2:08 1-4.

QUOT TOURNAMENT OPENED WEDNESDAY WITH FIRST ROUNDS

Four teams participated in matches Wednesday afternoon, opening the annual inter-city quot tournament at the Greene County Fair.

Wagner and Devoe defeated Vannorsdall and Gannon three straight games. Merritt and Sodders won three straight from Hughes and Peele and then took two out of three games from Wagner and Devoe.

The tournament will be resumed Thursday.

Results of the first round matches follow:

Wagner 12 11 10-23
Devoe 9 10 11-30
Vannorsdall 7 4 4-15
Gannon 9 5 6-20

Merritt 8 8 11-27
Sodders 13 13 10-26
Hughes 6 5 8 19
Peele 4 1 9-13

Wagner 3 10 11-24
Devoe 2 8 10-20
Merritt 13 10 7-31
Sodders 8 11 5-24

NOTES OF THE RACES

The track was fast and weather conditions were ideal for the opening program of the three-day meet Wednesday. Despite threatening weather early in the afternoon, the grandstand was more than 90 per cent filled.

A. E. Staub, Tippecanoe City, is the starter again for the second straight year. He did not have much difficulty as the fields were small for the most part and the card was completed in nine heats, the least possible number as straight heat victories featured each race. W. B. Bryson, Xenia; Walter Taylor, Tippecanoe City; and William Haston, Eaton, acted as judges. The timers were William Dadds and C. A. Weaver, Xenia, and Dan Ulrich, Ingomar, O.

The Xenia track record of 2:07 1-4 which has stood for about ten years, was shattered by Becky Beal, the Mechanicsburg pacer, in winning the first heat of the 2:14 pace in 2:06 1-4. This is a grand circuit performer, the pacer having finished second recently in the 2:03 pace at Toledo. Becky Beal's victory in straight heats was hotly contested. Each heat was a thrilling contest, the entire field packing from wire to wire in a bunch that could almost be blanketed.

The achievement of Joe Dillard in winning the 2:22 pace in straight heats is remarkable when it becomes known this fast pacer was so little regarded as a racer last year that he was tied in front of a drag to drag race tracks. O. W. Crane, Marion, aware that the horse had originally been intended as a racer, bought him cheap for something like $125 and started training him with excellent results. Joe Dillard was literally a "find" for his owner. He was also a popular winner with the crowd Wednesday.

Musical entertainment between heats was furnished by the noted Bath Twp. Community Band. This band is a forty-piece organization but the band stand would only accommodate twenty-nine pieces Wednesday.

The remaining $1,000 stake race, the 2:18 trot to be raced Friday, has a bunch of grand circuit horses entered and there is a distinct possibility the local trotting record of 2:08 3-4 may be bettered. Major Morrill and Josephine Volo, from the Parshall stables, both finished first at Toledo. Major Morrill was first in 2:07 1-4 and Josephine Volo first in 2:08 3-4. Bin Bird, another probable starter, made a record of 2:09 at Toledo while Royal Guy, a Toledo owned horse, also entered was third at Toledo in 2:05 1-4.

In addition to broadcasting the results of each heat through the megaphone, the fair board has had a score board erected by the judges stand on which the results are posted. The number of each horse and the order of the finish of each heat is posted on the board, which revolves on a concrete base. Birch Bell, son of B. U. Bell, fair board treasurer, is in charge of posting the results.

FIREMEN WIN FROM PHI DELTS EASILY WEDNESDAY NIGHT

After scoring eight runs in the first inning, the Firemen took things comparatively easy and defeated the Phi Delt 15 to 5 in a National League softball game Wednesday night at Cox Memorial Athletic Field.

The victory pulled the Firemen up to within half a game of second place. The Phi Delt, in dropping their eleventh consecutive contest, put up a game battle after the second inning.

L. Downey pitched for the winners and Wells twirled for the losers.

The second-place Downtown Country Club meets St. Bridg High School Thursday night.

Firemen lineup: L. Cope, ss; O. Woolley, 2b; I. Towles, 3b; L. Davis, 1b; C. Cope, cf; J. Cain, lf; J. Dickey, cf; C. Swartz, rf; L. Downey, p.

Phi Delt lineup: M. Marshall, c; L. T. Marshall, lf; McPadden, 3b; Hagler, ss; Smith, cf; Turnbull, 1b; Cowan, 2b; Wells, p; Gibney, rf; Weaver, 2b.

Score by innings:

Firemen 8 3 1 0 1 0 2 0-15
Phi Delt 2 0 0 2 0 1 0 0-5

Sport Criticisms by BILL RITT

Among the folks who pronounce the outdoor sport season a success are the chiggers. . . .

The chigger is a fun-loving insect that dotes on picnics and picnickers. . . .

Others break into society by way of wealthy golfers' ankles. . . .

The chigger's home life cannot be a happy one. It runs off with the first person that comes along. . . .

As soon as a chigger lands on an unsuspecting calf or elbow it wants to play submarine and submerge. . . .

Despite its chummy attitude most folks find the chigger too bothersome. . . .

When a chigger dies it has one consolation. It made its presence felt. . . .

What Will you do

There is hardly a household that hasn't heard of Castoria! At least five million homes are never without it. If there are children in your family, there's almost daily need of its comfort. And any night may find you very thankful there's a bottle in the house. Just a few drops, and that colic or constipation is relieved; or diarrhea checked. A vegetable product; a baby remedy meant for young folks. Castoria is about the only thing you have ever heard doctors advise giving to infants. Strong medicines are dangerous to a tiny baby, however harmless they may be to grown-ups. Good old Castoria! Remember the name, and remember to buy it. It may spare you a sleepless, anxious night. It is always ready, always safe to use; in emergencies, or for everyday ailments. Any hour of the day or night that Baby becomes fretful, or restless, Castoria was never more popular with mothers than it is today. Every druggist has it.

TAKE SIDES ON SMITH'S CANDIDACY

W.F. GEORGE

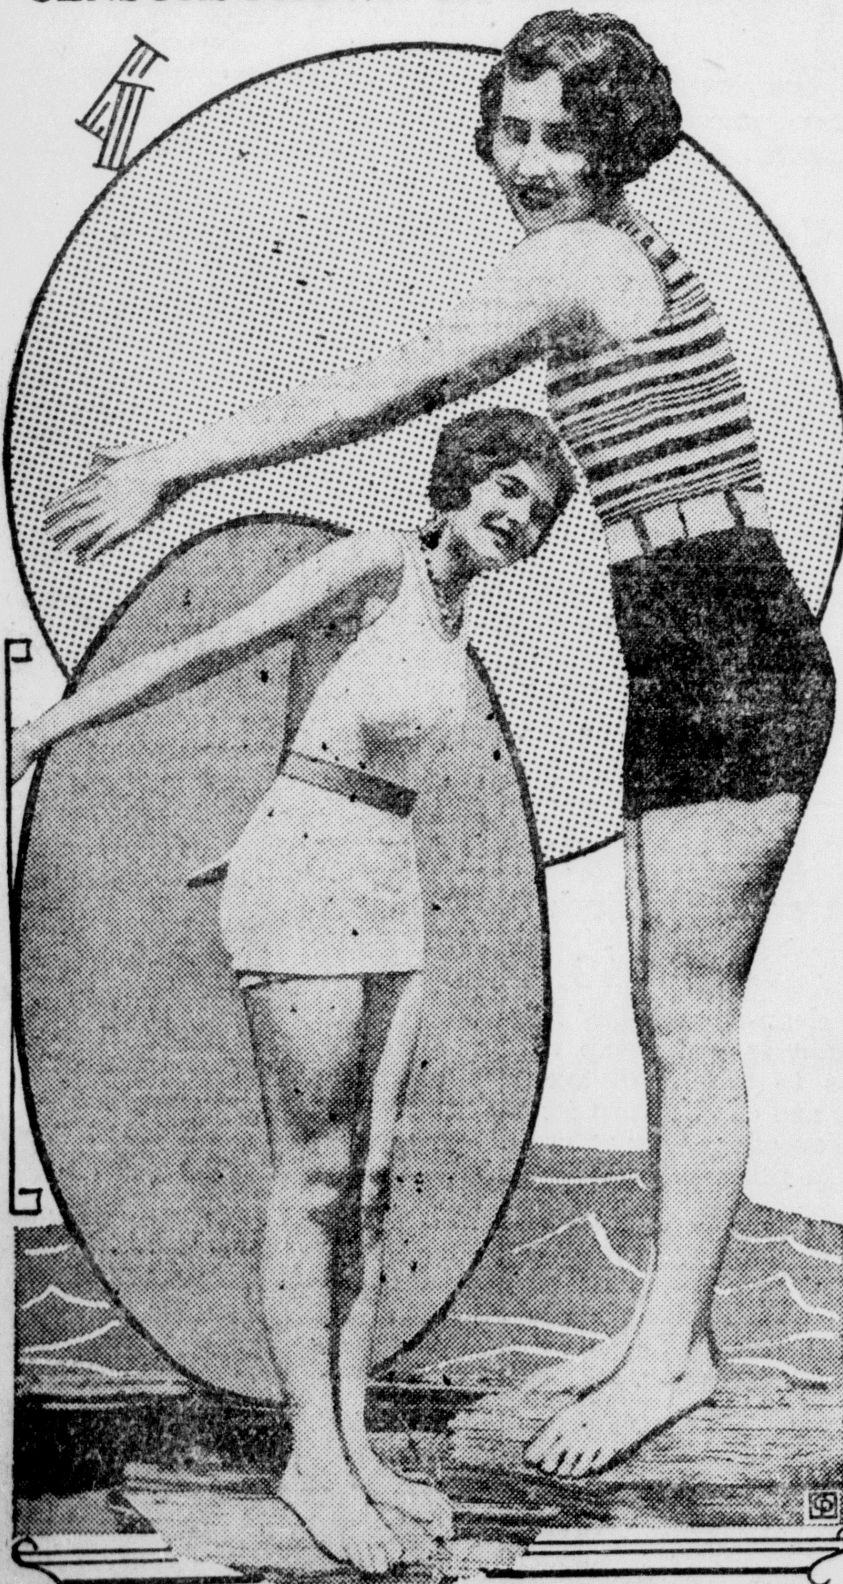

R.L. OWEN

W.C. MITCHELL V.C. MCCORMICK W.J. HARRIS

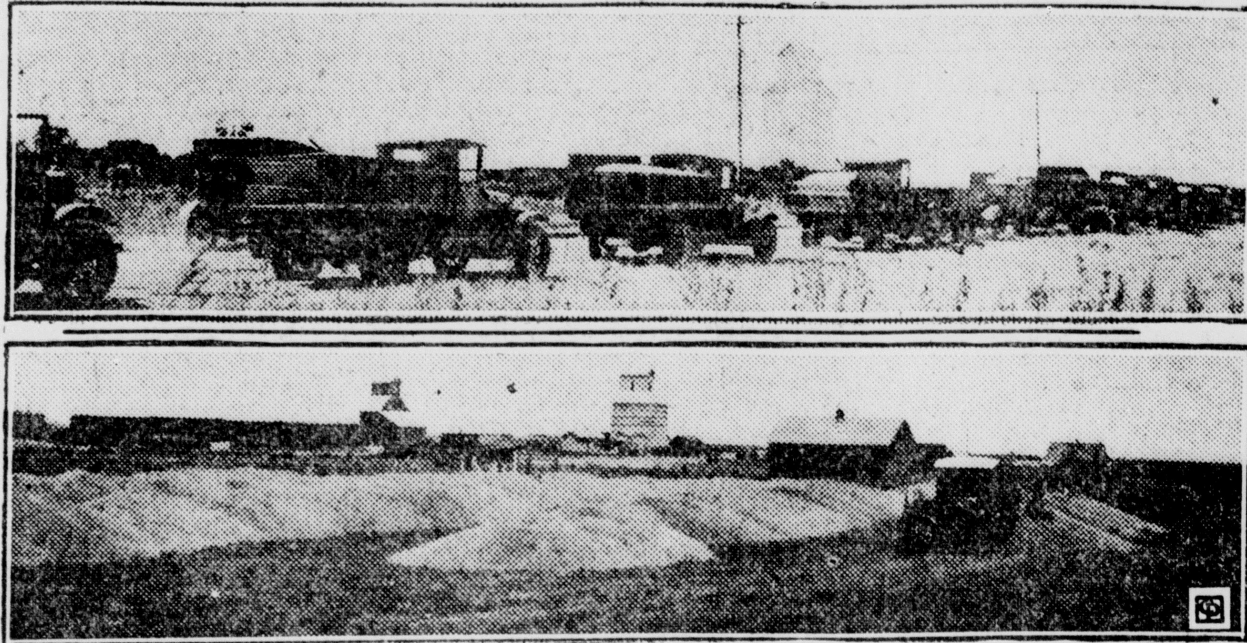

Closely following the decision of Senators William J. Harris and Walter F. George, of Georgia, both dyes, to support the presidential candidacy of Alfred E. Smith comes the announcement that Vance C. McCormick, former Democratic national chairman, and publisher at Harrisburg, Pa., has joined former U. S. Senator Robert L. Owen, of Oklahoma, in declaring that he cannot support Smith. Among recent recruits to the Smith ranks is Brigadier General William Mitchell, former "stormy petrel" of the air service.

CENSORS FROWN ON WHITE SUITS

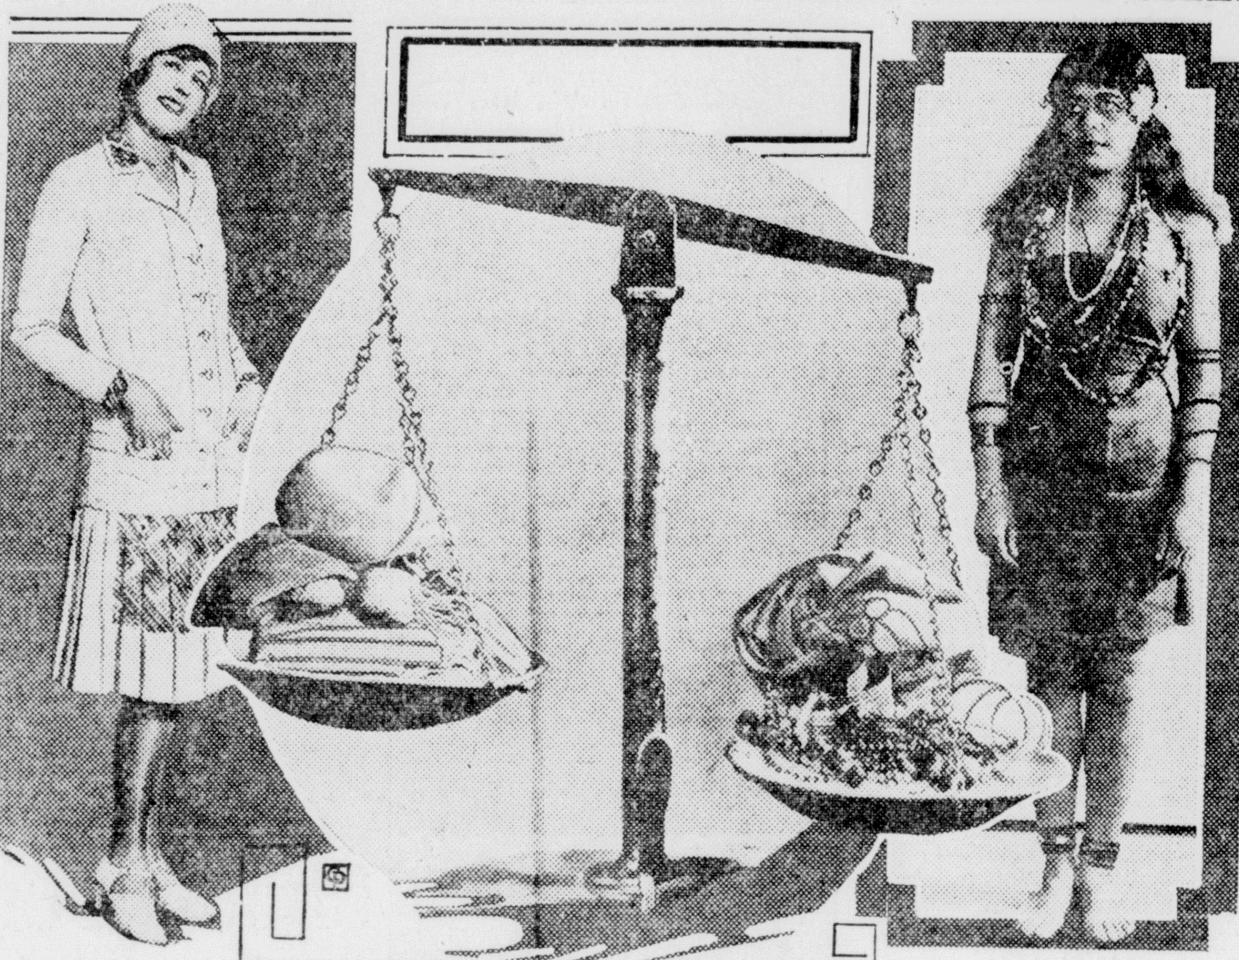

The young lady on the left, Miss Helen Reppe, meets with the disapproval of Seattle, Wash., bathing censors because her suit is white. The censors say white two-piece suits are "vulgar." Miss Genevieve Laherty, at right, is wearing a costume that bears the beach censors' approval, because it is of variegated colors. This is the first year that two-piece suits have been allowed on Seattle beaches.

IT LOOKS LIKE BUMPER CROP IN BIG WHEAT FIELDS

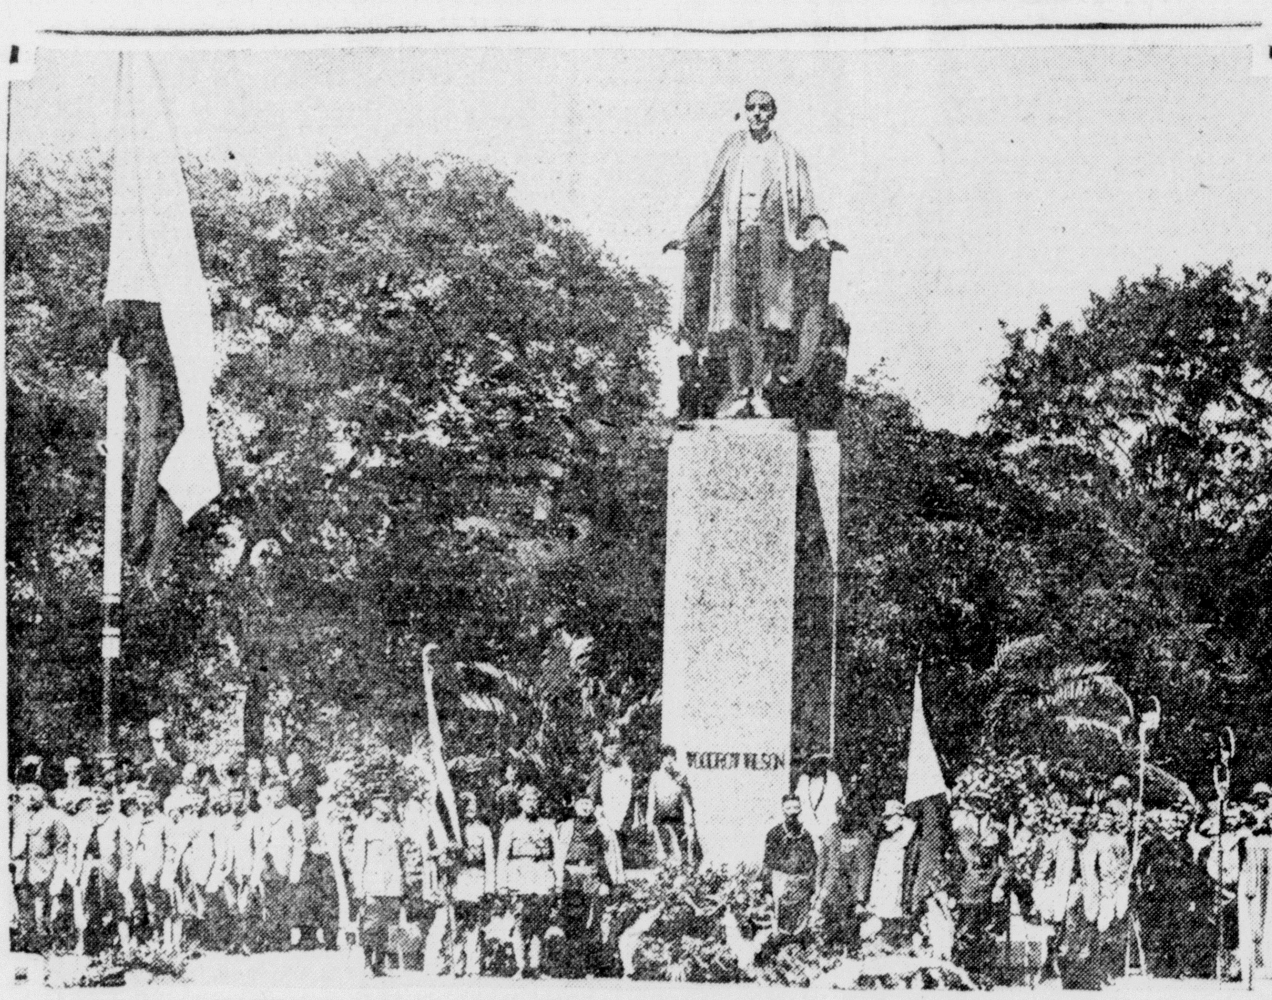

Farmers of the southwest are happy since they are harvesting what they believe is the largest wheat crop in 20 years. Above, motor trucks, loaded with wheat, en route to mills and railroad yards at Guyom, Okla. Below, immense piles of wheat, part of 100,000 bushels which growers have been unable to move. In this region close to 3,000,000 bushels have been threshed.

SUB-DEBS WEAR LESS THAN SOUTH SEA ISLAND BELLES

The modern sub-deb, flapper, sheba, or whatever you choose to call the modern young woman of alleged civilization, is wearing less clothing today, by actual weight, than the native belle of the South Seas. At left is Blanche Le Claire clad in a chic costume, with silken underthings, sports dress, felt hat and kidskin shoes. Right is her South Sea counterpart, dressed in simple, one-piece dress with armlets, leglets, necklaces, not mere accessories, but necessary parts of her costume. Between them the scales in which the clothing of each is shown, the scales tipping down in favor of the maid of Tahiti.

Czechs Unveil Wilson Statue

Woodrow Wilson, scholar, statesman and war leader, was honored by one of the states he championed at Versailles when this striking statue to him was unveiled July 4 in Prague. High officials of the Czecho-Slovakian government, ranking military leaders and the diplomatic corps attended ceremonies.

Actress Fights for Children

Mrs. Elsie Houston (centre), vaudeville actress, who has started court action in Pawtucket, R. I., to obtain possession of her two children, Alex (left) and Ellen (right), alleged to have been kidnaped by their father, Frank F. Houston, from their mother's home in Brooklyn. The Houstons are divorced.

Faces Deportation TOADS HAVE NOTHING ON TURTLE

If Uncle Sam deports Ludmila Maksimova (above), pretty young Russian girl now resident in San Francisco, she will go not to Siberia but to death, her attorney told immigration officials. The girl escaped from Siberia in 1924 after being sentenced to be shot by a Soviet drumhead court and came to the United States a year later.

Horned toads living for supposed ages in stone have nothing on this turtle, which was uncovered at Boston half-way through a three-ton block of live oak that measured 22 feet in length and was two feet thick and was to be used in reconstruction work on the old frigate Constitution. The block, shipped from Pensacola, Fla., had been under sea water for 73 years in a state of preservation. A soft section in the center formed the home of the creature. Lieut. J. A. Lord, naval constructor, points to the turtle.

Collie That Went Wrong

This collie seized and concealed $30 in currency which his master is alleged to have pilfered from the till of a Battery shop, according to testimony in a New York court. Leon Isaacs, 19, of Brooklyn, the dog's owner, held on a larceny charge, denies the story. The canine Fagan likewise is silent.

NIGHT LIFE FIGURES INDICTED

As the sequel of secret raids directed against 18 New York night clubs last June 29, by order of Assistant United States Attorney General Mabel Walker Willebrandt, 105 have been indicted by the federal grand jury, including Texas Guinan and Helen Morgan, night club hostesses, and Nils T. FRANK OYLER, HOME STOREKEEPER, HAS RESIGNED POSITION

Resignation of Frank L. Oyler, storekeeper at the O. S. and S. O. Home, for the last year and one-half, became effective July 31 and he returned to his former home at Columbus Tuesday night.

Oyler submitted his resignation three months ago to become effective August 1. His successor will be a man named Kelly, Cleveland, O., whose appointment made by Marcus Limb, Wooster, president of the board of trustees of the Home, has not yet been confirmed by the board.

Kelly is expected to take up his duties here next week. His appointment may be acted upon by the trustees at their August meeting next Saturday night.

Oyler, in his capacity as storekeeper, handled all the buying and dispersing of supplies for the entire institution. He gave the condition of his health as his only reason for resigning, according to Superintendent J. N. King.

Oyler is a Spanish-American and World War veteran. He served as first lieutenant in Company B, 4th Ohio Infantry in the Spanish American War. During the World War when the 4th Ohio Infantry was made the 166th regiment and attached to the Rainbow Division, Oyler was made captain of Company B in France.

He is the father-in-law of Captain O. H. Cornwell, county road patrolman and commandant of Company L, 147th Infantry Ohio National Guard, and served as Cornwell's captain in France. Oyler is retiring to private life and accompanied by his wife, will start this week for a motor trip through the West.

OHIO HAMPSHIRE BREEDERS TO MEET

The Ohio Hampshire Breeders will hold a summer meeting at Fernside Farms, owned by O. A. Dobbins, near Cedarville, Tuesday, August 7.

An interesting program is promised by the committee. Among the talks will be that of J. M. Ballard, Marion, Ind. Mr. Ballard raises 600 to 800 head of hogs per year and was the grower of the Grand Champion carload, at the International Fat Stock Show, last year. Free lunch will be furnished by the committee at noon.

ONLY SEVEN DAMP DAYS DURING JULY

With only seven days on which rain fell, July made up in dryness for June's dampness according to the monthly weather summary of W. W. Neffert, Dayton, government observer.

Instead of three clear days, as in June, there were only three cloudy days in July, but twenty-two partly cloudy and only six were recorded as clear.

Average temperature for the month was 75.4 degrees, with the highest being 93 on July 21 and the lowest 53 degrees July 30. Total precipitation was 3.29 inches, a deficiency of 1.05 inches, compared with the normal. There were 301.6 hours of sunshine for a percentage of 66. Miscellaneous phenomena included the auroras July 7.

FOR nearly twenty years, the Model T Ford led the motor industry and it still is used by more people than any other automobile. More than eight million Model T Fords are in active service today — an indication of their sturdy worth, reliability and economy.

The cost of reconditioning the Model T Ford is small because of the low cost of Ford parts and the established Ford policy of charging all labor at a standard flat rate.

For a labor charge of $20 to $25 you can have your motor and transmission completely overhauled. This price includes new bearings, reboring cylinders and any other work necessary. Parts are extra.

Valves can be ground and carbon removed for $3 to $4. The cost of tightening all main bearings is only $6. The labor charge for overhauling the front axle is $4.50 to $5—rear axle assembly, $5.75 to $7.

New universal joint will be installed for a labor charge of $3. Brake shoes relined for $1.50. Rear spring and perches rebushed for $1.75. The cost of overhauling the starting motor is $3. A labor charge of approximately $2.50 covers the overhauling of the generator.

Repainting runs from $10 to $25. Taking dents out of body panels and doors runs from $3 to $16 for labor. A fender can be replaced for a labor charge of $1 to $2.50. The cost of fenders runs from $3.50 to $5.

It will pay you, therefore, to see your Ford dealer and have him put your Model T in good running order. By doing so you will protect and maintain the investment you have in your car and get months and years of pleasant, reliable transportation at a very low cost per mile.

Mayor Jimmy Walker, who dresses well enough to be a movie actor, also has "It."

Should the dapper New York burgomaster tire of his chosen profession of politics, he can turn to the art of film acting.

He demonstrated his cinematic capacities here recently when he appeared both in screen and person at the brilliant premiere of "Lilac Time" and almost stole the show from its petite star, Colleen Moore.

The mayor was billed as the guest speaker, but brought a thrill of surprise to the first night audience when he essayed the lead opposite winsome Colleen in an intimate screen skit.

The sparkling subtitles may have been written by a high priced Hollywood title writer but they were so characteristic of the wisecracking chief citizen of Gotham that the audience was almost confident that Jimmy himself was the author.

Mayor Walker was a perfect film sophisticate as he sat with Colleen on a sofa and tried to interest her in politics while she tried to vamp him with all of the arts known to a screen siren. Colleen smiled her most beguiling smile and flashed her languorous eye lashes in approved Cleopatra fashion.

"What's the matter, have you got big eyes?" her film hero asked, not the least bit annoyed.

The picture was cut, undoubtedly by some zealous censor, just when the plot began to thicken.

Called to the stage, Mayor Walker was introduced in person by Master of Ceremonies Conrad Nagel.

His honor, was told that the slogan of the modest movie actor was "be yourself."

"If what I have just seen on the screen is myself," the mayor remarked, "whether I have your permission or not, I am going to change it."

"You may say the direction was good," he added. "But I am convinced that mine is best."

ALL CANDIDATES IN SEVENTH DISTRICT ARE SATISFACTORY

Charles Brand, Urbana, incumbent and Frank L. Johnson, Xenia, candidates for the Republican nomination to congress from the seventh district, and H. E. Rice, Xenia, only Democratic candidate for the same office are listed as "satisfactory" by the W. C. T. U. The organization prepared a list of endorsed candidates in both parties after receiving replies to questionnaires sent out recently. The questions submitted were: "Do you favor the 18th amendment? Do you believe the Volstead act should be modified by increasing the alcoholic content of liquor beyond the present limit of one-half of one per cent? Do you believe that each state should fix its own alcoholic content of liquor?" Candidates who answered the questionnaires satisfactorily were endorsed by the organization while endorsement was refused those who did not answer the questionnaire or who did so unsatisfactorily.

For governor the organization listed Myers V. Cooper, James T. Beaz, and Harry A. Shanley, Republicans and Martin L. Davey and Earl D. Bloom, Democrats. For U. S. Senator, Senator S. D. Fess, of Yellow Springs, C. T. Marshall and Charles Dick, Republicans and Charles L. Wharton, Senator Cy Locher and Thomas S. Wright, Democrats, were listed as satisfactory.

FIRE CAUSES SMALL DAMAGE ON TUESDAY

Damage not exceeding $5 was caused by fire starting from a gasoline stove in the kitchen at the home of Lucy Clay, colored, laundress, 231 Fair St., at 5:22 p. m., Tuesday. The paper on one of the kitchen walls was burned off after becoming ignited in some manner from the stove. Occupants of the house extinguished the blaze but firemen were also summoned. The residence, owned by Lucy Clay, is occupied by Eugene Gaines, colored.

REPUBLICANS FORM FINANCE PLAN TO AVOID MONEY SCANDAL

Will Avoid Deficit As One Means Of Eliminating Repetition Of Sinclair Case; Nutt Makes Rules.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Three additional measures have been evolved today by Republican campaign chiefs to avoid a repetition of the Sinclair Liberty bond transactions of the Harding campaign which brought ex-national chairman Will H. Hays before a senate investigating committee for examination.

These proposals, together with the previously announced intention of making periodical public statements of campaign contributions, are called the cardinal principles of the finance policy of the national committee. They are:

1. No deficit shall be permitted even if necessary to restrict campaign activities.
2. No solicitors collecting money on a commission basis will be employed.
3. Large contributions from individuals will be avoided to a large degree.

The general scheme of raising and expending about $4,000,000 for the campaign emanated from conferences which included national chairman Hubert Work, treasurer J. R. Nutt, Secretary Franklin Fort and eastern treasurer, Jeremiah Milbank.

"There will be no deficit," Nutt declared flatly. "If we haven't got the money the expenses will have to be held down. There will be no paid solicitors; we will depend entirely upon volunteer workers."

"While we have set no limit on contributions we shall use discretion and we will make a great effort to obtain one and five dollar subscriptions to our campaign fund."

Treasurer Nutt indicated a belief that $100,000 in individual subscriptions, not uncommon in the past, should be avoided.

The quiet Cleveland banker, whom some Republican chieftains say will make a national reputation if they were coming."

George K. Smith, secretary of the Ohio Coal Operators' Association, said this morning that he had no comment to offer other than what he had made last week that "so far as he had heard none would be present."

Lee Hall, president of the Ohio district of union miners, refused to combat on the possible attendance, saying that he had no acceptance from any operator "because we didn't ask for them to notify us if they were coming."

SHERIFF KILLS TWO AND WOUNDS THIRD; BELIEVED THIEVES

Wounded Man May Recover; Two Women Being Held

RAVENNA, O., Aug. 2.—With a deep bullet wound in his chest, Ralph Brown, 27, was still in a hospital here today, the only survivor of three men who engaged in a gun battle with Jay R. Ferry, Geauga County sheriff, and George Dussel, a deputy, yesterday morning.

Brown is said to have a fair chance to recover. Mrs. J. A. Sheeler, who says she is his mother, and Violet Smith were still held in the county jail today and no charges have been placed against them.

The sheriff and his deputy were searching for chicken thieves on Lover's Lane, near here, when they came on a parked automobile occupied by two women.

While Dussel guarded the machine the sheriff continued his search alone. Three men, whom he encountered, refused to heed his command to halt and knocked him into a ditch, he said. He then shot Brown and Harry Glpe, 23, killing the latter. Dussel killed Ira Clogston, 24, as he tried to escape in the automobile. All of the men and the two women are from South Newbury, Geauga County, but they formerly lived in Chambersburg, Pa., they said. The women denied that the party had stolen anything or intended stealing.

The minimum rate for a walking band has been fixed at $72 for a 16-man group to play an hour or less. It seems that it would be cheaper to use a truck for the horn tooters, as the rate for seven men if "hailed" is $31.50 an hour.

EXPENSIVE MUSIC AIDS POLITICIANS

DAYTON, O., Aug. 2.—Music for social parades in Dayton will sound more like "cold cash" jingling if the announcement made here today by Nate Heidelberg, president of the Dayton Musicians' Protective Association, means anything.

The minimum rate for a walking band has been fixed at $72 for a 16-man group to play an hour or less. It seems that it would be cheaper to use a truck for the horn tooters, as the rate for seven men if "hailed" is $31.50 an hour.

GOUGHAM DRY TARGET

DRY CAMPAIGN WILL CENTER ATTACK ON ALLEGED OPEN BARS

Injunctions Will Be Demanded Is Lowman Promise

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Openly operated bars in New York City have become a national scandal, acting Secretary of the Treasury Seymour Lowman declared today in announcing that the cleanup drive on Broadway "has only just started."

The federal government has no intention of molesting the hip-flask toters or invading private homes but open bar rooms are a violation of the law and must go, according to Lowman.

"In proportion to the number in operation there have been fewer bars closed in New York than in Chicago, so far," Lowman said.

"While the prohibition bureau and justice department are concentrating just now in New York, other cities throughout the country where there are open bars or where night clubs are openly violating the law, will receive adequate attention."

At the office of Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general in charge of prohibition, it was stated that the justice department is not operating exclusively against the New York night clubs and bars, but is prepared to make drives in all cities where evidence develops of big scale violations of the liquor laws.

The justice department was given an additional appropriation of $60,000 by the last congress for special activities in connection with the enforcement of the prohibition laws. Additional attorneys and other personnel to prepare the legal phases of dry cases have been employed.

The prohibition bureau started its investigation of the New York City situation about six months ago, Lowman disclosed. Special agents from dry general headquarters here augmented the forces operating under administrator Maurice Campbell of New York, and are co-operating with the United States Attorney's office.

Officials said that enough evidence to padlock a large number of additional establishments along Broadway and upon which to base hundreds of criminal indictments is in the hands of the prohibition and justice department authorities.

"Raids, arrests, fines and even jail sentences are not adequate to meet the New York situation," Lowman said. "It is necessary to close the night clubs and bars by injunction where the dry laws are violated flagrantly."

"We intend to push the campaign in New York and close by injunction every night club that does not abide by the law."

After the New York situation is cleared up the prohibition bureau plans to extend its activities to other cities. An important and fruitful series of raids and padlocking activities were completed sometime ago in Chicago, he said. Lowman asserted that there is nothing of a political nature in recent activities of the dry unit, adding that enforcement is taking its normal course in view of the widespread violations of the law.

AUTOIST INJURED

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 2.—William Dugan, 40, Indianapolis, was in a serious condition here today, suffering a broken shoulder and possible fracture of the back, resulting from an auto crash late last night on the National highway near Reynoldsburg, east of here. John Miller, 45, his companion, suffered internal injuries and possible fractures.

Dugan told police he was driving west and was forced into a ditch to avoid crashing into the rear of another automobile.

CHALLENGE ACCEPTED

Packet Tom Greene Will Race Senator Cordill On Ohio River

CINCINNATI, Aug. 2.—The steamboat race between the packets Chris Greene and Senator Cordill on the Ohio River from Gallipolis to Pomeroy, O., scheduled for August 19, was called off today by Captain Greene, skipper of the boat bearing his name, and winner of the contest with the Betsy Ann.

The Pittsburgh owner of the Senator Cordill had no more received the notice from Capt. Greene, when a challenge was received from Captain Tom Greene bearing his name, for a race between Pittsburgh and Cincinnati, a distance of about 450 miles.

DRY LEAGUE SPLIT

THREE HOVERING NEAR DEATH AFTER WILMINGTON AUTO CRASH

WILMINGTON, O., Aug. 2.—Three of the five persons injured in a head-on auto crash here yesterday afternoon are today hovering between life and death in a Wilmington hospital. Eight persons were in the two cars which collided.

The accident occurred, according to witnesses, when the machine driven by Lee Crone, Cincinnati at a 60-mile an hour rate, swerved and crashed with a machine driven by F. T. Bellis of Bradford Pa., neither Mr. or Mrs. Bellis were injured although their machine was wrecked.

The injured are: Lee Crone and his wife, their son Robert, Mattie Crone, and Josie Strawcamp, all of Cincinnati. Mrs. Crone, Mattie Crone and Robert are not expected to live.

Witnesses say the Crone car was demolished, parts being strewn over the highway for nearly 150 feet. Another child of the Crones was reported to have been thrown clear of the wreckage into an adjoining field and uninjured other than a few bruises.

HOOVER RETURNS TO DUTIES OF NOMINEE AFTER AUTO OUTING

Candidate Believes Forecasts Must Be Conserved.

WOODLAND, Cal., Enroute to San Francisco With Hoover, Aug. 2.—Herbert Hoover went back to his duties as Republican nominee for President today with a firm conviction that the federal government and the states must take heroic steps to save the forests of America.

After a five-day vacation in northern California and southern Oregon, Hoover returns from wooded mountains, icy streams, giant redwood trees and a tree-lined road, with a thorough knowledge of forest conditions on the Pacific slope. He left today all of yesterday on an 180 mile tour of forests and watersheds in the vicinity of Mount Shasta, the snow-topped daisy of all Pacific coast mountains.

The candidate time and again halted his party to converse with forest rangers. He showed extraordinary interest in efforts to check forest fires and the government's activity in reforestation. He told one ranger he was disappointed with the small amount of reforestation undertaken in northern California. He learned incidentally that private lumber companies had reforested greater areas in the West than had the government.

The nominee was due to arrive in San Francisco at 9:30 this morning, to motor from there to his home in Palo Alto. He will resume work at once on his speech accepting the Republican presidential nomination, which will be delivered in Leland Stanford University Stadium August 11.

Hoover's last day in the mountains saw him fishing but half an hour. He arose with the dawn, drove ten miles across the mountains to McCloud and breakfasted at a lumber camp. Then he went to Mount Shasta's base, studied forest conditions, and then to Medicine Lake. His son, Allan Hoover, caught a twelve inch trout as soon as their lines were cast in the lake.

"There is more enthusiasm for Governor Smith in these states today," Johnson said, "than there was for either Cox or Davis the day before the election in 1920 and 1924."

"Smith's great appeal in the west is his liberality." Asked if the charges lodged against Smith's voting record in the New York assembly had figured in the mountain states campaign, Johnson replied: "They helped Smith."

Sen. Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, who was vice-presidential running mate with the late Sen. Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin on the third-party ticket in 1924, will win the Progressive vote from the Republican ticket according to reports sent to Johnson's headquarters.

FALLING GATE KILLS EIGHT

THOROLD, Ont., Aug. 2.—The death list in the Welland Canal disaster here stood at eight today. They were crushed to death when a massive steel gate, swinging into place over Lock Number Six, tore itself loose from an electric crane and fell to the bed of the canal where forty men were working.

Seventeen injured men, several of whom may die, were taken to a hospital in the nearby town of St. Catharines. The dead: W. Galaske and Samuel McMullan, of Thorold; L. Boccolletti, of Borrough, Ont.; and W. C. Overhold, James McArthur, Joseph McArthur, Harold Smalka and Joseph Carrio, all of St. Catharines.

TAKE WHISKEY

CANTON, O., Aug. 2.—Police here believed today they had stemmed one source of Canton's liquor supply, following the arrest last night of Joseph Bartolomeo, 27, of Cleveland, who the officers say, was carrying 105 gallons of whiskey in an automobile. A watch has been maintained every night recently for liquor runners.

TWO ANTI-SALOON LEADERS DECLARE POLICIES IGNORED

"White List" Failure To Endorse Begg Causes Dispute.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 2.—Issuance of a "white list" of candidates endorsed by the Ohio Anti-Saloon League led today to a heated controversy within the ranks of the League.

Two leaders of the league were reported to have stated that Dr. E. J. Moore, superintendent, and F. L. Dushman, editor of the League's official newspaper, should be replaced with new leaders in view of their policy in endorsing certain candidates for office while failing to do this for other candidates also said to conform to the league's requirements and to have satisfactory records as drys.

N. C. Sherwood, of Fremont, and E. R. Root of Medina, were the League leaders who voiced objection to recent acts of Moore and Dushman. The spark that touched off their volley was the failure to recognize James T. Begg, Sandusky, as an approved candidate, although his dry record is said to be above reproach.

Begg was listed among the candidates for governor who do not have the League's endorsement, either because they are unsatisfactory to that body or because definite information could not be obtained. The "White List" appeared over the signature of Dr. Moore.

It is the contention of Sherwood and Root that Moore and Dushman did not follow the instructions of the special League committee to remain neutral to dry candidates for governor.

RAIL OFFICER SHOOTS THREE

CLEVELAND, Aug. 2.—Thomas Lear, 49, a railroad detective, early today shot and killed his wife in their home here, probably fatally wounded his stepson, and then turned the gun on himself. He is reported near death in a hospital.

The tragedy is said to have resulted when the stepson, Frank Meyers, 25, asked Lear for money, the latter refusing. Mrs. Lear took her son's part in the argument, according to the report, and the husband, enraged, whipped out a pistol and shot them both.

At City Hospital, Meyers was reported to have two bullet wounds in his head and another near his heart, while Lear has two wounds in his chest. Neither is expected to recover. Mrs. Lear was killed instantly.

SMITH WILL CONFER WITH FARM LEADER

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Back from a brief vacation on Long Island, Governor Al Smith today was to make a bid for the votes of the farmers of the middle west. In his suite at the Baltimore hotel the governor was scheduled to give George N. Peek, of Moline, Ill., farm leader, a general outline of what he plans to do, in the event of his election to the presidency, to bring relief for the farmers.

The conference between the governor and Peek was arranged by John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee. Peek is chairman of the committee of twenty-two of the North Central States Agricultural Conference, and in this capacity, is looked upon as the official spokesman for the farmers of the middle west.

COOLIDGE VISITS IRON ORE RANGES

SUPERIOR, Wis., Aug. 2.—President Coolidge left here today for a tour of the great Missabe Iron Range of Minnesota, from whence comes half of the iron ore used by the entire nation.

Touring out from Hibbing and Virginia, Minn., the executive and his party were to be shown the largest open pit mine in the world and the largest white pine mill in the world, among other points of interest.

FIVE STEAMERS RUSH TO COURTNEY'S AID OFF AZORE ISLANDS

Seaplane Not In Immediate Danger Is Report; Flyers Were Attempting 1800 Mile Hop To Newfoundland.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—A fleet of at least five trans-Atlantic steamships is rushing today to the aid of Capt. Frank T. Courtney and his three companions, whose seaplane was forced down into the ocean approximately 500 miles west of the Azores while attempting a 1,800-mile flight from Horta to Newfoundland.

The rescue fleet includes the President Hayes, Minnewaska, Columbus, Cedric and Celtic.

The liner Franconia notified British wireless stations that Courtney and his fellow flyers were in no immediate danger and that the Celtic and Cedric were going to their assistance.

The Radio Marine Corporation was advised through Chatham, Mass., wireless station that the Columbus, Minnewaska and President Hayes had changed their positions to give succor to the stranded airmen.

A radiogram to the Radio Marine at Glasgow, before leaving the Azores, the plane was carefully overhauled and the pontoons scraped to rid them of all superfluous weight.

The length of time that the plane could remain aloft was a problematical depending upon the weather and water. In calm water, experts said, the plane might require fuel indefinitely or until weakened by the battering of the mid-ocean waves.

Seafaring men pointed out that, if the plane came down approximately 500 miles west of Horta, it probably would soon be sighted by passing steamships. It was in the same region that Ruth Elder's plane was forced down last year while she and George Haldeman, her pilot, were attempting a flight from America to Europe. They were in sight of a Dutch tankship bound for a Texas port when they were forced down and were picked up immediately.

When the Courtney flying boat left the Azores it was heavily fueled, and, in addition to this weight, carried four persons, in addition to Courtney and the wireless operator the personnel on board included E. Hosmer, a Montreal banker and financial sponsor of the flight, and Fred Pierce, a mechanical.

The distance from the starting point to Newfoundland is approximately 1,800 miles. If Courtney were forced down where the Benuaria's radiogram indicated he had completed less than one-third of his journey.

While Courtney is an expert pilot he has been beset with ill luck ever since he began his trans-Atlantic attempt last year.

A trans-Atlantic race between Courtney and the Spanish round-the-world airman Ramon Franco appeared in prospect as both hoped off the same day. Franco, who left Cadiz, Spain, yesterday morning, was forced down at Huelva, Spain.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—The last message received here from Capt. Frank T. Courtney, printed by the Star today, was dispatched while the seaplane was still in flight. It was laconic, merely saying: "Outlook fair."

This message was received late last night. It is held that radio trouble prevented the dispatch of further radiograms.

FORMER GOVERNOR OF KENTUCKY DIES

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 2.—William S. Taylor, 74, former governor of Kentucky, died at the Methodist hospital here early today after an illness of two months from bladder trouble.

Taylor had been in Indiana since shortly after the assassination of Governor Goebel of Kentucky. He fled to this state when efforts were made by Kentucky authorities to hold him in connection with the shooting which occurred in the shadow of the state capital at Frankfort, Ky. Indiana officials, holding the view that Taylor could not obtain a fair trial in Kentucky because of political conditions there, refused to honor extradition requests.

EIGHT KILLED IN OIL BLAST

VINCENNES, Ind., Aug. 2.—The death toll of the Indian Refining Company's still explosion at Lawrenceville, Ill., west of here, rose to eight today with the deaths of six more of fifty-one injured men. Physicians feared that at least ten more of the injured would die.

The still exploded during a fire at the plant with a deafening roar and showered more than 150 fire fighters with burning oil. The men that were the most seriously hurt inhaled the flames.

Thirty-six of the injured were rushed to the Good Samaritan Hospital here while fifteen received treatment at Lawrenceville.

CAMBRIDGE, O., Aug. 2.—Life imprisonment today had been pronounced upon Earl Valentine, 32, confessed slayer of his father-in-law and sister-in-law, Andrew Anderson, and Mrs. W. H. Osborne. The shooting took place May 11 during an alleged family dispute.

Valentine also seriously wounded his wife, Eva, and his brother-in-law, W. H. Osborne, at the same time. Osborne was released from a hospital here Monday, having been confined since the shooting. A first degree murder charge is still pending against him for the death of his sister-in-law.

MEET THIS FIRST:
Janet Mary James, eighteen, sweet and clever and good, has an ambition to go on the stage because her mother, who died the night she was born, had been a famous opera star. In New York Janet meets Dr. Ballard Riley, who is known as a woman hater. Ballard dates her up, and Janet gets a lot of fun out of having a date with him. Janet meets Flavia Marlowe, Sir Henry Martindale and "Putty" Bigelow. Flavia, about fifty years old, is beginning to wrinkle and trying to hide it. She is wealthy, and has a studio in the Village. Flavia persuades Janet to lease a studio. It is Janet's first evening in her new home, and she is entertaining Flavia and her friends. Later there is a knock at the door, and Ballard Riley steps in.

In Flavia's words, Ballard threw a wet blanket on the party the minute he came in. After the guests depart, Ballard lectures Janet for taking up with the Vill. (Now Go On With the Story.)

CHAPTER XIV.

At that moment the door opened and Flavia sailed in, her Pekingese under one arm and a package under the other. Janet was suddenly struck with the way Flavia looked—old and worn and tired. There were circles under her eyes and wrinkles that the make-up could not hide.

Janet rushed to her and threw her arms around her. She felt a sudden rush of pity. Flavia dropped the dog and kissed her cheek.

"Well good morning, Princess. I heard that man—whatever he was, he happens to be the best-looking man I have seen in an age—call you that last night. You've been holding out on Flavia, sweetie!"

Janet laughed and pushed Flavia to the divan.

"That's my one and only."

Flavia raised her brows and folded her hands.

"Yes—I thought you had something up your sleeve. Where did you meet him?"

"Oh, in the hospital when I got smashed into by the cab. He was my doctor. And I proceeded to date him up."

Flavia was amused. She pointed a finger at Janet and looked serious.

"Young-un, hhe is your fate! I see it in the stars. I can tell by the way you looked at him and the way he looked at you."

Janet was thrilled.

"Oh, my goodness, Flavia! How did he look at me? Tell me about it. Do you think he likes me?"

Flavia smiled wryly.

"Young men don't stay to reform young girls and see that they get to bed all right if they don't like them pretty well."

Janet's face flamed. It was almost as if Flavia knew he put her to bed. Flavia noticed the blush and hurried to correct the faux pas.

"Oh, honey, I don't mean he put you to bed. I mean he just waited around to make sure nobody else got too generous and offered to."

Janet grinned foolishly and made a little face. Her voice was little.

"Flavia, how can a woman make a man care for her—I mean, love her a lot—always?"

Flavia's laugh was a rather shrill, hopeless one.

"Oh, Janet, you are so young, dear! Men don't love women always. They love them a little while—until someone else a little prettier and more attractive happens along. Don't believe all that rot about love lasting all the time. I don't want you to. It will hurt you too much when you find out it is all a lot of bunk."

Janet stared at Flavia in amazement. She was serious. Her eyes were hard and her voice cold. She was not fooling. Janet felt a sinking sensation about her heart. She didn't want to believe that. Could it be true?

Flavia sailed in, her Pekingese under one arm.

Flavia reached over and took her hand.

"Listen, Janet. Take love where you find it while you can get it. Don't go through the best years of your life with your head in the stars and your heart on your sleeve. I did—and I'm—I'm—her voice broke. "Well, I'm a wreck, that's all."

Janet put her arms around Flavia and held her tightly.

"Why, Flavia, why do you talk like that? You are a beautiful woman, and you have lots of money and friends. You sound as though you were through—or had something terrible happen to you."

Flavia's voice was hollow.

"I have had plenty of things. And I'm telling you if you care for this stunning man, grab him while the grabbing is good—get all you can of love and life—but don't let it hurt you. Beat life to it. If you don't believe it is real and lasting it can't hurt so much. Always keep one eye open, Janet."

"Don't you believe in marriage—children and things like that?" Janet's question was a plea.

Flavia stiffened.

life to live over again I wouldn't marry the best man alive."

Janet was horrified. She pulled away and stared until Flavia laughed.

"My goodness, how shocked and serious you look!" She took her hand and patted it.

"Janet, you think you are in love with this Riley, don't you?"

Janet's head went up.

"I am sure that I am."

Flavia sank back on the divan.

"Well, darlin', you're hopeless! I see I can't give you any good advice. I must run along and I'll drop in this evening, maybe. Meanwhile, I leave you to your thoughts—or thought, rather. Well, anyway, you picked out a handsome devil, which is more than I ever did. Love was always blind where I was concerned."

When Flavia left, Janet sank in to a chair and stared at the floor, lost in her thoughts. Her affection for poor Flavia was stronger than ever. She felt that she must have suffered a great deal to have acquired such a misguided angle to life.

Flavia sent Lotus Flower up in the afternoon to help Janet clean

the studio. It needed it badly. Lotus, who was very fond of Janet because she was so beautiful, sat her in a chair and refused to allow her to work. Lotus was picking things up when she smiled her oriental grin at Janet's protests.

"All right, Misses. You help Lotus Flower. Play piano."

For an hour Janet played and sang for the little Chinese while she worked. There was worship in the dark, slanted eyes, as they followed Janet's beautiful hands over the keys. When the work was finished she stood beside the piano, eyes downcast and little hands folded. Janet looked up and laughed.

"Why, Lotus, you look blue."

She shrugged her shoulders and sighed.

"Oh, me want make plitty melody. Lotus one stick-in-mud."

Janet caught her hands and laughed until Lotus caught the spirit and laughed, too—something she very rarely did. Then Janet sat her down on the bench and taught her "I Love to Boys and the Boys Love Me." She was amazed at the clever way in which Lotus Flower learned. In fifteen minutes she was playing it perfectly.

Janet had made one friend for life. From that time on Lotus would have laid down her life for her. Her friendship was so much a great deal to Janet in the months to come.

Janet took a nap during the tea hour, and had just finished her bath and dressed, when the bell rang. She was dumbfounded when Putty Bigelow came sailing in as though he had been calling on her for years. She didn't like the idea. Putty was funny and amusing. But she couldn't like him. There was something weak about his chin and eyes—"Putty" was a good nickname for him. She thought suddenly that he looked like putty. Putty face!

There was no doubt in her mind but that Putty would try to get fresh. She couldn't imagine him dropping in just to say "how-do-you-do." He grabbed Janet around the waist and lifted her up. "Hello, sister. I'm heaven's sweet answer to all your supplications. Aren't you glad to see me?"

Glorious performance

Precision built in this Great Hudson

The great performance that marks Hudson out among all fine cars, with stellar brilliancy, is not alone in the genius of its design, but in a manufacturing execution that also stands at the head of the industry.

The hand-matching of all pistons is a detail in this precision manufacture, that is typical of every operation in building this greatest of all Hudsons.

Hudson leadership of mode extends to every detail and marks a new Hudson supremacy, as definite as its mechanical dominance through the Super-Six principle, and its companion invention which set today's standard for motor performance.

Every item of finish, construction and equipment expresses value as tangibly as its great chassis qualities. Come and examine the new Super-Sixes. They will give you an entirely fresh view of motor values.

Mrs. Cosley has been gone since the last of June.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water softens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderly at night. Next day bright, Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall Drug Store.

FAIR RECEIPTS FOR WEDNESDAY EXCEED 1927 OPENING DAY

Undaunted by threatening weather, between 10,000 and 15,000 people are estimated to have attended the 1928 Greene County Fair Wednesday.

The estimated gate receipts for Wednesday total $300 more than receipts for the corresponding day last year, according to Brant U. Bell, treasurer of the fair board. Weather conditions were ideal Thursday, which is the "big" day of the exposition, and the attendance was expected to reach higher than 20,000 people.

A majority of Xenia business houses, following a yearly custom, declared Thursday afternoon a half-holiday and all the shoe stores, furniture stores, clothing stores and hardware firms remained closed, to permit employees an opportunity to patronize the exposition.

Public offices in the Court House were closed the entire day.

PARK BUILDING CORNERSTONE WILL BE LAID FRIDAY, AUG. 10

The cornerstone for the new memorial auditorium building under construction in Shawnee Park will be laid with appropriate ceremony at 7 o'clock Friday night, August 10, according to an announcement by the Greene County Home-Coming Association Thursday.

Plans for the exercises, which have not been entirely perfected, were left in charge of Catharine Greene Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, at a meeting of the Home-Coming Executive Committee Tuesday night.

Articles to be sealed in the cornerstone will include a Bible by the W. C. T. U.; a flag presented by Catharine Greene Chapter, D. A. R.; a history of Shawnee Park and a printed list of small donors to the building fund.

According to present plans, Mrs. DeEtta Wilson will deliver the principal speech. It is also planned to have a lawn fete and a band concert after the cornerstone laying ceremony.

Home-Coming officials point out that Xenians should feel free to contribute money to the building fund as the list of donors will not be read publicly. Donations should be made as soon as possible to either T. H. Zell or M. L. Wolf in order that all names may appear on the list.

FORMER RESIDENT REMOVED BY DEATH

Mrs. David Harper, Tulsa, Tex., former Greene County resident, died in Los Angeles, Cal., recently, Greene County relatives have learned.

Mrs. Harper spent her girlhood in Old Town her maiden name being Olive Berkestrer. After her marriage to Mr. Harper, they lived several years in Xenia, moving about forty years ago to Trinidad, Colo. She has a number of Greene County relatives.

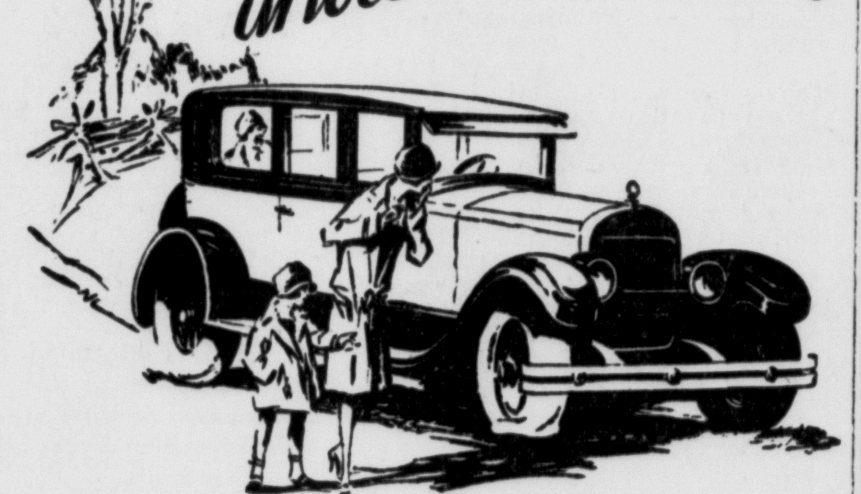

Funeral services were held in Tulsa. She leaves her husband and four sons, Frank S., Alfred, Earl and Ira.

NAT HUNTER WILL RIDE DONKEY

Conforming with a promise made to County Commissioner A. E. Beam, N. N. Hunter, Jamestown auto dealer and sportsman, has agreed to ride "Midnight," a mammoth, black donkey in the live stock parade, which will be held at 12 o'clock noon Friday at the Greene County Fair.

Commissioner Beam declared he would furnish the donkey if Hunter would agree to ride it in the parade, Hunter called the bluff.

COACH IS ILL

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 2.—"Pooch" Donovan, veteran coach of the American Olympic team, who is gravely ill of heart trouble, is on his way home today. Accompanied by Eddie Farrell and Dr. O'Brien, of Philadelphia, he sailed from Rotterdam aboard the liner Volendam last night. Friends fear he will not survive the trip.

BALLOTS ALTERED COOPER REVEALS

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 2.—Cooper, For-Governor headquarters here issued a statement today on the Ohio W. C. T. U. endorsements of candidates subject to the August primary, which gave equal approval to Cooper and James Begg, of Sandusky.

"Mrs. Florence Richards (president) and Mrs. S. F. Edwards of Leipsic, legislative representative for the Ohio W. C. T. U. following the annual conference at Lakeside two weeks ago, prepared a sample marked ballot based on answers to questionnaires sent out by the organization," the Cooper statement read. "This ballot gave the organization preference to Cooper, as it was explained that both Begg and Turner evaded the questionnaires. Friends of Mrs. Richards and Mrs. Edwards charged today that the marked ballots were deliberately altered by Mrs. Horatio Van Kirk, state secretary of the organization."

Do you enjoy your food?

IF you do not enjoy your food it is a true sign that you are losing your appetite. And when your appetite is "gone" it means you haven't the resistance to ward off diseases. Loss of appetite is only a symptom. General weakness pervades the entire body. There is no desire to work or play.

Rich, red, blood builds and sustains

Your physician will tell you that lowered vitality is the result of an insufficient supply of red blood cells—those vitalizing elements in the blood that build and sustain the body.

Without plenty of rich, red blood, there can be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or beautiful, healthy women.

When you get your blood cells back up to normal, that sluggish, let-down feeling, loss of appetite, rheumatism, boils, pimples, and skin troubles disappear. You get hungry again; sleep soundly; solid flesh takes the place of that which was once flabby. You feel

Now! meal time is a happy event strong; and your nerves become steady.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

GOOD NEWS—As cold waters to a thirsty soul, so is good news from a far country.—Prov. 25:25.

DEMAND FOR MORE SHIPS

America's hope of developing a merchant marine service of the first rank does not lie in carrying a greater share of our European commerce in American ships or in the building of more fast trans-Atlantic liners. It depends upon the building of a host of prosaic freighters to carry our manufactures to South America and Asia, bringing back the raw imports which are becoming increasingly important in industrialized America.

This is the point stressed by Edward P. Warner, assistant secretary of the navy, in a study of American economic development and foreign trade presented in the Review of Reviews.

Mr. Warner points out that America is the only modern nation to become highly industrialized without developing a merchant fleet capable of carrying at least half of its foreign commerce, a situation ascribed to post-war conditions which have made it necessary for other nations to come to us for their imports.

Europe today is the only continent with which we do not need to increase the shipping carried under our own flag. Mr. Warner points out, because "our wheat and cotton are needed badly enough in Europe to insure that European vessels will call for them."

But the rest of the world presents a different picture. With all other continents, especially South America, we do essentially one sort of business. We are exporters of complete manufactures, importers of raw stuff. In that business, if our interests are to be safeguarded, we must have more ships.

OUTLAW AMONG NATIONS

The United States has proposed to the leading civilized nations of the world that war as a method of settling disputes be hereby and is outlawed. The proposal will be accepted, within ten days. The Republican national convention at its last meeting adopted the platform which endorses "the outlawry of war" specifically.

Now this won't stop war automatically. Bootleg wars will be held for 100 years among the little fellows and maybe somewhat among the big fellows. Yet from the time that American treaty is signed, for the first time in human history war loses caste. War will be an outlaw just as the murderer, the thief, the robber, or the saloon is an outlaw. And while the absolute prohibition of war won't come until the hearts of men are softened and the heads of men are enlightened, still this forward step toward outlawing war by treaty is the biggest thing that has happened on this planet in the way of bringing peace on earth among men of good will to humanity—the biggest thing that has happened for 2,000 years.

PAYING THE PENALTY

There were no unsolved murder mysteries in London in 1927, a checkup of the cases discloses. There were 27 killings, and in every case the killer was caught and given the legal punishment, with the exception of ten murderers who are listed as suicides in jail. Few American cities can show such a record.

Peggy Joyce is taking her fifth husband. But in all the printed comment on the case no optimist has seemed to be willing to write the last line of the story, "And they lived happily ever after."

Highway congestion will do more to sell airplanes than the best sales talks that can be devised.

The Way of the World

THE "TALKIES"

How is your voice? Are you able to manage it? Not much chance in Hollywood for you without a good voice. The "talkies" or talking movies have upset the situation in the movie colonies. Acting used to be enough to get by in the movies. Now good acting and good voice control are required.

THE 400,000

If there were 400,000 marbles in a barrel how much would you bet that you could pick out the lucky one in a single reach? Your chance would be only one in 400,000. Three hundred and ninety-nine thousand and nine hundred and ninety-nine chances would be against you. And yet, in a gigantic lottery which was taking the pennies of school children, the chance to win was only one in 400,000. What folly to gamble!

TRADITION RULES

In college and university education tradition too often is the dominant element. The fact that colleges generally are kept remote from business areas is due to the asceticism of the scholars of the Middle Ages who were tired of the world and wanted to get away from it. The college should be located where it is most efficient. Possibly a broad campus is the best site. But don't be too sure.

ANOTHER CUSTOM

In Holland it is out of the question for a man to appear in public without his coat on. It is contrary to custom. Imagine the surprise of the Hollander who arrives in this country in the middle of the summer and see thousands coatless! Of course, he, too, soon will conform with the group and put comfort first.

DOLLAR FRIENDSHIP

"Without the friendship of newspaper editors I don't think that any business can succeed." Probably the man who said this has the correct view, but how can the man who abuses a friendship retain his self-respect? Wouldn't you rather do without luxuries than "sponge" on a friend?

The Diary of a New Yorker

by CLARK KINNAIRD

NEW YORK. — Divorcees are obtainable in New York on only one charge, and there are scores of private detective agencies which specialize in obtaining divorce evidence, "Frame-ups" are not infrequent, although most of the agencies refuse to accommodate the demands of clients for such "evidence."

The majority of clients of these agencies are women. The manager of one of the bureaus told me that usually when men seek his services they appear ashamed of themselves for doing it, and if the agency fails to find evidence unfavorable to "the woman in the case" most of them are relieved and happy. But most women are disappointed when the agency fails to take up evidence against a man, and either are desirous of further investigation, or are plainly determined to take the matter to some other agency.

Motion picture cameras now are used by the agencies in obtaining evidence. Films taken by operatives stationed outside of hotels, apartment-houses or roadhouses usually are more satisfactory to clients than any amount of verbal or documentary evidence.

The head porter of one of New York's hotels, who recently took over the management of another hotel which he has leased for 15 years. Tips made him wealthy.

The head waiter in another hotel provided the money with which a financially involved industrial magnate made a comeback in Wall Street. The magnate had been one of the waiter's most generous tipsters.

One of the principal owners of a syndicate which has the check-room concessions in night clubs, theatres, cafes, etc., has amassed a million out of his dividends and investments he made with them. And, more and more folks are getting the idea that they HAVE to tip.

I'm one of New York's champion non-tipsters. I passed the final test which admitted me to an exclusive club called "The No-Never Men," when I lunched at the Savoy-Plaza and departed without having tipped the waiter, cigar-girl, head waiter, phone-girl, door-opener and carriage-starter. Having survived their glowers, I feel prepared for anything. I'm not even afraid to go to Chicago.

Nearly a third of the men seen in Manhattan streets in daytime are hatless. The number of persons who are foregoing top-pieces is reflected in the frantic efforts of stores to get rid of their summer headgear. Straw-hat sales started sooner than ever this season, and the low prices made it plain that Mr. Abraham Vogel's labors have not been in vain.

Mr. Vogel is the founder and chief crusader in the "Hatless Manhattan" movement. He speaks nightly in Union Square, promising converts freedom from baldness, better health, and savings of from 50 cents to two dollars a week in tips and hat costs.

New York department stores are darker in Summer than in winter. The number and size of electric lights is reduced in order to make the store seem and possibly feel cooler.

I am giving you today a menu suitable for either a guest luncheon or a home one for an especially festive occasion. The chicken may be left over and used with veal or ham, or it may be cooked especially for this dish.

Today's Recipes.

Chicken and Peas—Stir into two cups of well-seasoned chicken stock two tablespoons gelatin softened in one-half cup cold water. When this begins to stiffen stir in one cup cooked chicken chopped fine, and one cup cooked peas or asparagus. Dip stuffed olives in some of the aspic and place in a mold at intervals; then by spoonfuls place in some of the chicken aspic. Pour in the remainder of the aspic. Chill in the refrigerator. Chill and when ready to serve slice down. This is an excellent luncheon dish and a nice way in which to use leftover chicken or veal. A little ham added will make this more tasty.

Velvet Cream (Mrs. Mary Morton's Daily Tested Recipe.) One quart milk, one-half box gelatin, three-fourths cup sugar, three eggs. Put the milk in a double boiler, add sugar and gelatin. When hot add beaten yolks of eggs and cook until gelatin has dissolved and it looks like a thin custard (about 10 minutes), then take from stove and add at once the

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

THE ORIGIN AND DEVELOPMENT OF BEAUTY LORE

Probably Eve, with all the Garden of Eden at her disposal, was the first woman to find out how the simple elements of Nature brought health and strength to the body and beauty to the skin and hair. Not that we have any records of Eve, nor any certified notions which claim the ancestry of her own hand—but it does seem that turning back the pages of cosmetic history first by tens of years and then by hundreds, we cannot find a single period of existence when the art of blending herbs and manufactured essences was totally unknown.

Usually, the only recipes that were known and practiced were those passed down by word of mouth, and added to or detracted from generation to generation. I cannot find any "beginning" at all to the use of cream. I do believe that it is quite possible it was used first in a semi-corrective way as an emollient—perhaps for cuts or scalds. Grease and fat, invariably of animal origin, has been—and still is, for that matter—used among the savage tribes to smooth on their bodies, first as a precaution against capture, and second as a purely beautifying agent. A highly oiled skin is a determining factor of beauty among many African, Australian and New Zealand tribes.

Of course, this use of cream and oil is purely savage—but undoubtedly we, too, were once purely savage, and perhaps, as civilization dawned, we carried certain remembrances with us from the old era into the new. And perhaps among these memories was the knowledge that cream softened the skin, enhanced its color and texture—made it beautiful and young. Then bit by bit new knowledge augmented the old.

Homely and interesting additions were made to the first base of animal fat. Cucumber juice, lemon juice, essence of flowers and herbs all crept into the original product, and creams of every kind were hawked through the cobbled streets of the old world. Then came a manufacturing era—and in a short time it began to affect the age-old industry.

Diet and Health

Bananas

You have heard the story of the little boy who was asked by his teacher how to spell a certain word? He spelled it correctly, and the teacher responded automatically: "That's good." The little boy tersely remarked: "Gee, teacher, that's mo'n good; that's perfect."

X. wants to know if the banana is a good food. I feel like answering her as this little boy did his teacher.

Bananas have come into their own in recent years. They used to be in disrepute, especially for children, but that was because they were given in an unripe state and not thoroughly mashed. Thoroughly ripe bananas (when they are thoroughly ripe the have specks of brown on their skin) are not only very delicious, but they contain a carbohydrate and sugar that is one of the most easily digested, and they are a good source of lime and iron.

In a certain intestinal disease—celiac disease—in which children cannot digest the usual starchy foods, it is found that they can digest ripe bananas, and these are given to the exclusion of all other starches. Children (and adults) suffering from other intestinal upsets can also take bananas when they can't take other starches. Infants as young as four or five months can take pureed ripe bananas.

Water Drinking E.—Water comprises about two-thirds of the body weight. It is necessary for all of the body fluids and secretions, and it is a part of every cell in the body. It holds the food elements in solution until they are deposited where they are needed, and carries away waste products.

About two and one-third quarts of water are eliminated normally from the lungs, kidneys, skin and intestines daily, and we must supply this loss. The normal should take from four to eight glasses a day, in addition to that which is taken in the food. Children's bodies have a higher percentage of water than adults' so they need more water in proportion to their weight than do adults.

It is a good practice to have regular times for water drinking, say one or two glasses before breakfast (this can be taken moderately hot if liked) and one or two between meals. Children should always have some between meals and especially during hot weather.

Yes, water drinking at meals is all right, E., unless excessive amounts are taken and unless it is used to wash the food down. Ice water and other ice drink are permissible in moderation; these should be taken slowly, for if taken too rapidly and in too large amounts, they may cause severe intestinal disturbances, both in children and in adults.

Needless to say, all water must be pure.

Kellygrams

By FRED C. KELLY

If Senator Curtis becomes vice president, my most vivid picture of him will still be of a charmingly agreeable man seated in his private office, feet on his desk, recalling the days when he made his living by driving race horses. I remember distinctly how feelingly he spoke about an old horse he once drove named Long-Eared John.

Now that Curtis is in the race for vice president, it seems strange that so little has been said in the public prints about his days in the harness races.

Funny how we always like a man better when we know that he once engaged in pursuits not requiring dignity!

OAK PARK, Ill.—"Sarge," cried Policeman Fremont Nestor, congratulate me! I've got a 12-pounder!"

"Fine," said the sergeant, an old fisherman, "is it speckled?" "I should say not; it's kind of reddish, though."

"Gonna have it stuffed?" "Stuffed!" cried the horrified cop. "What are you talking about?"

"Fish me eye," retorted Nestor, "I'm talking about my new baby boy!"

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON.—Representative Clarence J. McLeod, reports lots of promises from other representatives, to help him next winter, with his bill to take 24 congressmen away from 16 states whose populations have not grown much in the last 18 years, and give them to 12 states whose populations have grown very fast.

It is the celebrated "reapportionment bill."

In case it passes, there no longer will be a rural majority in the house of representatives. It will become a city majority.

It will be a momentous change if it occurs, for an urban lower house of congress is likely to have very different notions from a rural one.

However, it would not be safe to plunge too heavily on McLeod's bill. He has thought he had it almost passed several times before, at each time it has been found in the waste basket when congress adjourned.

Still, Clarence has been working for it like a horse all this recess. Who knows!

Theoretically the house of representatives consist of a member for every 30,000 inhabitants. The "founding fathers" carved out the first set of districts, on the basis of an even break all 'round. But they foresaw that population's growth would not be uniform everywhere—that some places would fill up faster than others. Thus, presently, the original arrangement would not be fair.

So they provided for a reapportionment every ten years—after each census.

This was all right, so long as it only meant increasing the number of representatives, but the reapportionment following the 1910 census brought the total up to 435, which it was generally agreed was enough. In other words, the next time one state got more representation, some other state would have to accept less.

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

THOSE "BOSSY PEOPLE"

There are people—we all know them—who assume superior airs and seem to think it is their prerogative to tell others what to do—to "boss" them. Now no one likes to be "bossed," and consequently these people are usually unpopular. Men particularly detest this type of woman, and no matter how pretty and charming a girl is, if she is of this arrogant type, she will usually lack admirers. A girl who acknowledges that she has more than a tendency, in this direction writes the following letter:

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I am a girl 20 years old. I am considered fair looking and have a fairly good disposition, but I do not seem to be popular with the opposite sex. A few months ago I met a man four years my senior. He gave me a wonderful time and sent me beautiful presents—such as flowers, books and candy. Then he told me he loved me repeatedly, and wanted to give me an engagement ring for my birthday. My parents did not approve of him because he was of a different nationality. He was American, but of Italian descent. I never told him this, but I was very superior toward him. Despite the fact he kept sending me gifts and taking me to the best places of amusement. Finally one night we had a terrible argument over me "bossing" him around. I told him that I thought it was too serious and we had better not see on another night more. He couldn't bear this at first, but I insisted, but by the time we reached home I agreed to let him call on me the following Wednesday night. During that time he sent me a letter telling me the real facts about unbecomingly I had been, which was really true. He ended his letter telling me how dear I was to him. I became very angry and wrote him that everything was at an end. That was seven weeks ago. I haven't seen or heard from him since. Now, Mrs. Lee, do you think he could have loved me as much as he stated? Do you think he could have forgotten me so soon? Do you think he will call eventually? If he does call should I have my parents interfere on account of nationality? I find now that I like him much more than I did when I was going with him, because I know I imposed on him and he catered to me in every way.

"P. S. Could you tell me why I don't seem to be able to get a boy friend easily?" "C. B."

To answer your postscript first, I presume it is because of this very trait of "bossiness" and unappreciation. You see, partly to realize your fault, but entirely, now as to nationality. He can't help it, you know, and why we native born Americans take this arrogant attitude toward those of other nationalities, is a puzzle. All of us came originally from some "foreign" country. You know the real Americans are the so-called Indians. And you certainly did not show any superiority of mind or manners toward your dear, in accepting his gifts and treats and then acting in a "superior" manner? If you really care for him and want him to come back the only thing you can do is to write him a very humble letter, telling him that you realize how unbearably rude your conduct has been and asking his forgiveness. Do you want him back that much? Love is too precious a thing to be treated as you treated his, and I don't believe you could kill it in such a short time.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: Am a girl of 23 years, going with a boy two years my senior. He has a very good occupation and insists we get married. My mother approves, but my father says I am too young and should wait until I am least 30, although he says he will consent, but not with a good will. Now, Mrs. Lee, I want to obey my parents. Will be doing wrong by marrying before I am 30?"

"HELEN." I should say you are just the right age to be married. Helen, and as you are of age you may do so if you wish. Ask your father how he would have liked to have waited seven years before marrying when he was engaged to you.

"If only I had learned to run in a straight line instead of in circles, Two-Legs would never have lassoed me. Oh, dear me, I can't breathe! Goodbye, little strangers. I am going to sleep. I shall never wake up! Don't let Two-Legs find you here when he comes back, for me or he will harm you!"

Pacer Lowers Track Record Opening Fair Races

BECKY BEAL TRAVELS MILE IN 2:06 1-4 TO WIN STAKE AND CUP

Grand Circuit Mare Breaks Record That Stood Ten Years; Fast Time And Straight-Heat Winners Mark Wednesday Speed Card.

By PHIL FRAME

Straight heat victories featured the opening-day card on the Southwestern Ohio Short-horse Circuit meet at the Greene County Fair Wednesday afternoon.

Becky Beal, fleet pacer owned and driven by J. C. Mitchell, Mechanicsburg, O., won the 2:14 pacing stake, feature event on the program, in straight heats, and in taking the first heat in the fast time of 2:06 1-4, established a new track record for the Xenia half-mile oval.

The grand circuit horse took the first heat in a driving finish and came back to win the second in 2:07 3-4 and the third in 2:08 1-4.

The previous track record of 2:07 1-4 was set by George Volo, a pacer, in a spring meet here about ten years ago.

The stake event was worth $1,000 and the winning owner was also presented with a loving cup offered by the Lulu Fay Restaurant, Xenia.

Moss Direct, owned and driven by William Pavy, Sabina, took second money and Patchen Boy, of the stable of J. W. Miller, Newark, O., third place. Five horses comprised the field and all were grand circuit racers.

Becky Beal came from behind in the first and third heats to win but led all the way in the second brush with Moss Direct furnishing keenest opposition.

Joe Dillard, owned and driven by O. W. Crane, agt., Marion, O., won a straight-heat victory in the 2:22 pace for a $300 purse, opening number on the Wednesday bill. The winner had an easy time of it and little opposition was supplied by the remaining field of eight.

ENJOYS GLORIOUS HEALTH; GLAD TO INDORSE KONJOLA

"It Completely Ended My Stomach Trouble," Says This Man

Everywhere in Xenia and all the nearby towns, men and women are highly recommending this Konjola medicine which the Konjola Man is now explaining to the public at the Gallaher Drug Store, Xenia. Konjola is helping thousands of people who were never better before. It is especially beneficial in cases of stomach, liver, kidneys and bowel troubles, or rheumatism or neuritis.

Just a few days ago the following report was received from Mr. O. E. Gooding, No. 4 Miller Ave., Xenia, Ohio:

"I strongly endorse Konjola after the amazing relief it gave me from all my health troubles," said Mr. Gooding. "It ended my stomach trouble and my whole system has been greatly benefited."

"I had taken nearly every medicine on the market trying to rid myself of the terrible misery of stomach trouble. I would become distressed and all the medicine that I would take for relief had no effect upon me. The gas on my stomach caused me to become short of breath and it was almost impossible for me to eat anything. I had such terrible dizzy spells that I could scarcely walk without staggering and would nearly fall. I finally got in such a condition that I could not eat and was bothered very much by constipation. In spite of taking all kinds of laxatives the constipation came right back again. I would have the most terrible headaches that seemed to always stay right in the back of my head. These troubles gradually grew worse until they finally affected my nerves. The least little noise would upset me so that I would go all to pieces."

"Then Konjola was brought to my attention and I was told of the results other people were getting from this medicine. So I made up my mind to give it a trial. It went right to the source of my health troubles. By the time I had finished the first bottle of Konjola, I knew I had at last found the medicine I had always been looking for. My stomach never bothered me in the least any more and the gas bloating did not come over me. I am never dizzy and I can walk any place I want to, without becoming the least bit dizzy. Konjola cleared the poisons from my system, making future laxatives unnecessary. My nerves are stronger and at night I can go to sleep the minute I get into bed. The next morning I get up feeling full of pep and vigor. Konjola surely did the work for me and I want to endorse this medicine to others."

The Konjola Man is at the Gallaher Drug Store, Xenia, where he is daily meeting the public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Free samples.

QUOT TOURNAMENT OPENED WEDNESDAY WITH FIRST ROUNDS

Four teams participated in matches Wednesday afternoon, opening the annual inter-city quito tournament at the Greene County Fair.

Wagner and Devoe defeated Vannordall and Gannon three straight games. Merritt and Sudders won three straight from Hughes and Peele and then took two out of three games from Wagner and Devoe.

The tournament will be resumed Thursday.

Results of the first round matches follow:

Wagner	12	10	11-23
Devoe	9	10	11-30
Vannordall	7	4	15-15
Gannon	9	5	6-20

Thursday, Aug. 2
1884—Moffett, with Toledo Americans in old National League, made six errors in one game, being third man to perform feat that year.

1887—Ray Bronson, who claimed the world's welterweight boxing title in 1912, was born in Webster City, Pa.

1907—Walter Johnson, pitched his first big league game, defeating the Detroit Tigers, 5 to 1, for Washington.

1920—Babe Ruth slammed out thirty-eighth homer of season. Lefty Williams of Chicago Sox beat the victim.

NOTES OF THE RACES

The track was fast and weather conditions were ideal for the opening program of the three-day meet Wednesday. Despite threatening weather early in the afternoon, the grandstand was more than 90 per cent filled.

A. E. Staub, Tippecanoe City, is the starter again for the second straight year. He did not have much difficulty as the fields were small for the most part and the card was completed in nine heats, the least possible number as straight heat victories featured each race. W. B. Bryson, Xenia; Walter Taylor, Tippecanoe City; and William Haston, Eaton, acted as judges. The timers were William Dadds and C. A. Weaver, Xenia, and Dan Ulrich, Ingomar, O.

The Xenia track record of 2:07 1-4 which has stood for about ten years, was shattered by Becky Beal, the Mechanicsburg pacer, in winning the first heat of the 2:14 pace in 2:06 1-4. This is a grand circuit performer, the pacer having finished second recently in the 2:03 pace at Toledo. Becky Beal's victory yin straight heats was hotly contested. Each heat was a thrilling contest, the entire field packed from wire to wire in a bunch that could almost be blanketed.

The achievement of Joe Dillard in winning the 2:22 pace in straight heats is remarkable when it becomes known this fast pacer was so little regarded as a racer last year that he was used in front of a drag to drag race tracks. O. W. Crane, Marion, aware that the horse had originally been intended as a racer, bought him cheap for something like $125 and started training him with excellent results. Joe Dillard was literally a "find" for his owner. He was also a popular winner with the crowd Wednesday.

Musical entertainment between heats was furnished by the noted Bath Twp. Community Band. This band is a forty-piece organization and the band stand would only accommodate twenty-nine pieces Wednesday.

The remaining $1,000 stake race, the 2:18 trot to be raced Friday, has a bunch of grand circuit horses entered and there is a distinct possibility the local trotting record of 2:08 3-4 may be bettered. Major Morrill and Josephine Volo, from the Marshall stables, both finished first at Toledo. Major Morrill was first in 2:07 1-4 and Josephine Volo first in 2:08 3-4. Bin Bird, another probable starter, made a record of 2:09 at Toledo while Royal Guy, a Toledo owned horse, also entered was third at Toledo in 2:05 1-4.

In addition to broadcasting the results of each heat through the megaphone, the fair board has had a score board erected by the judges stand on which the results are posted. The number of each horse and the order of the finish of each heat is posted on the board, which revolves on a concrete base. Birch Bell, son of B. U. Bell, fair board treasurer, is in charge of posting the results.

After scoring eight runs in the first inning, the Firemen took things comparatively easy and defeated the Phi Deltas 5 to 1 in a National League softball game Wednesday night at Cox Memorial Athletic Field.

The victory pulled the Firemen up to within half a game of second place. The Phi Deltas, in dropping their eleventh consecutive contest, put up a game battle after the second inning.

L. Downey pitched for the winners and Wells twirled for the losers.

The second-place Downtown Country Club meets St. Brigid High School Thursday night.

Firemen lineup: L. Cope, ss; O. Woolary, 2b; I. Towles, 3b; L. Davis, 1b; C. Cope, c; J. Cain, lf; J. Dickey, cf; C. Swartz, rf; L. Downey, p.

Phi Deltas lineup: M. Marshall, c; L. T. Marshall, lf; McFadden, 3b; Hagler, ss; Smith, cf; Turnbull, 1b; Cowan, 2b; Wells, p; Gibney, rf; Weaver, 2b.

Score by innings:
Firemen --- 8 3 1 0 1 0 2 0-15
Phi Deltas --- 2 0 0 2 0 1 0 0-5

IT LOOKS LIKE BUMPER CROP IN BIG WHEAT FIELDS

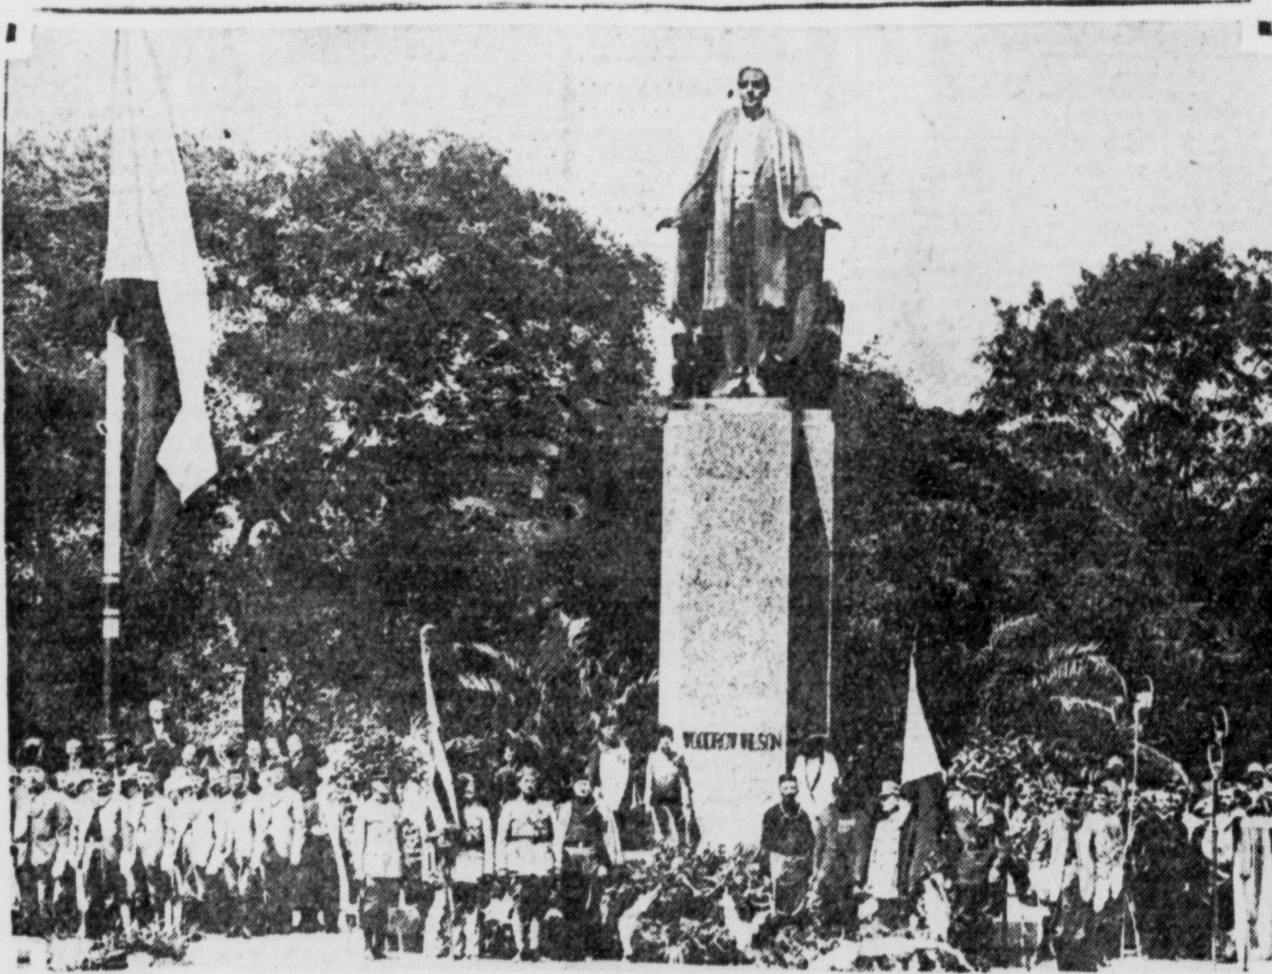

Farmers of the southwest are happy since they are harvesting what they believe is the largest wheat crop in 20 years. Above, motor trucks, loaded with wheat, en route to mills and railroad yards at Guyom, Okla. Below, immense piles of wheat, part of 100,000 bushels which growers have been unable to move. In this region close to 3,000,000 bushels have been threshed.

SUB-DEBS WEAR LESS THAN SOUTH SEA ISLAND BELLES

The modern sub-deb, flapper, sheba, or whatever you choose to call the modern young woman of alleged civilization, is wearing less clothing today, by actual weight, than the native belle of the South Seas. At left is Blanche Le Claire clad in a chic costume, with silken underthings, sports dress, felt hat and kidskin shoes. Right is her South Sea counterpart, dressed in simple, one-piece dress with armlets, leglets, necklaces, not mere accessories, but necessary parts of her costume. Between them the scales in which the clothing of each is shown, the scales tipping down in favor of the maid of Tahiti.

Faces Deportation

If Uncle Sam deports Ludmila Maksimova (above), pretty young Russian girl now resident in San Francisco, she will go not to Siberia but to death, her attorney told immigration officials. The girl escaped from Siberia in 1924 after being sentenced to be shot by a Soviet drumhead court and came to the United States a year later.

TOADS HAVE NOTHING ON TURTLE

Horned toads living for supposed ages in stone have nothing on this turtle, which was uncovered at Boston half-way through a three-ton block of live oak that measured 22 feet in length and was two feet thick and was to be used in reconstruction work on the old frigate Constitution. The block, shipped from Pensacola, Fla., had been under sea water for 73 years in a state of preservation. A soft section in the center formed the home of the creature. Lieut. J. A. Lord, naval constructor, points to the turtle.

Collie That Went Wrong

This collie seized and concealed $30 in currency which his master is alleged to have pilfered from the till of a Battery shop, according to testimony in a New York court. FRANK OYLER, HOME STOREKEEPER, HAS RESIGNED POSITION

Resignation of Frank L. Oyler, storekeeper at the O. S. and S. O. Home for the last year and one-half, became effective July 31 and he returned to his former home at Columbus Tuesday night.

Oyler submitted his resignation three months ago to become effective August 1. His successor will be a man named Kelly, Cleveland, O., whose appointment made by Marcus Linn, Wooster, president of the board of trustees of the Home, has not yet been confirmed by the board.

Kelly is expected to take up his duties here next week. His appointment may be acted upon by the trustees at their August meeting next Saturday night.

Oyler, in his capacity as storekeeper, handled all the buying and dispersing of supplies for the entire institution. He gave the condition of his health as his only reason for resigning, according to Superintendent J. N. King.

Oyler is a Spanish-American and World War veteran. He served as first lieutenant in Company B, 4th Ohio Infantry in the Spanish American War. During the World War when the 4th Ohio Infantry was made the 166th regiment and attached to the Rainbow Division, Oyler was made captain of Company B in France.

He is the father-in-law of Captain O. H. Cornwell, county road patrolman and commandant of Company L, 147th Infantry Ohio National Guard, and served as Cornwell's captain in France.

Oyler is retiring to private life and accompanied by his wife, will start this week for a motor trip through the West.

ONLY SEVEN DAMP DAYS DURING JULY

With only seven days on which rain fell, July made up in dryness for June's dampness according to the monthly weather summary of W. W. Neffert, Dayton, government observer.

Instead of three clear days, as in June, there were only three cloudy days in July, but twenty-two partly cloudy and only six were recorded as clear.

Average temperature for the month was 75.4 degrees, with the highest being 93 on July 21 and the lowest 53 degrees July 30. Total precipitation was 3.29 inches, a deficiency of 1.05 inches, compared with the normal. There were 301.6 hours of sunshine for a percentage of 66. The Theater

Mayor Jimmy Walker, who dresses well enough to be a movie actor, also has "it."

Should the dapper New York burgomaster tire of his chosen profession of politics, he can turn to the art of film acting.

He demonstrated his cinematic capacities here recently when he appeared both in screen and person at the brilliant premiere of the "Lilac Time" and almost stole the show from its petite star, Colleen Moore.

The mayor was billed as the guest speaker, but brought a thrill of surprise to the first night audience when he essayed the lead opposite winsome Colleen in an intimate screen skit.

The sparkling subtitles may have been written by a high priced Hollywood title writer but they were so characteristic of the wisecracking chief citizen of Gotham that the audience was almost confident that Jimmy himself was the author.

Mayor Walker was a perfect film sophisticate as he sat with Colleen on a sofa and tried to interest her in politics while she tried to vamp him with all the arts known to a screen siren. Colleen smiled her most beguiling smile and flashed her languorous eye lashes in approved Cleopatra fashion.

"What's the matter, have you got big eyes," her film hero asked, not the least bit annoyed. The picture was cut, undoubtedly by some zealous censor, just when the plot began to thicken.

Called to the stage, Mayor Walker was introduced in person by Master of Ceremonies Conrad Nagel.

His honor, was told that the slogan of the modest movie actor was "be yourself."

"If what I have just seen on the screen is myself," the mayor remarked, "whether I have your permission or not, I am going to change it."

"You may say the direction was good," he added. "But I am convinced that mine is best."

Charles Brand, Urbana, incumbent and Frank L. Johnson, Xenia, candidates for the Republican nomination to congress from the seventh district, and H. E. Rice, Xenia, only Democratic candidate for the same office are listed as "satisfactory" by the W. C. T. U. The organization prepared a list of endorsed candidates in both parties after receiving replies to questionnaires sent out recently. The questions submitted were: "Do you favor the 15th amendment? Do you believe the Volstead act should be modified by increasing the alcoholic content of liquor beyond the present limit of one-half of one per cent? Do you believe that each state should fix its own alcoholic content of liquor?" Candidates who answered the questionnaires satisfactorily were endorsed by the organization while those who did not answer the questionnaires or who did so unsatisfactorily were not.

For governor the organization listed Myers Y. Cooper, James T. Beeg, and Harry A. Shanley, Republicans and Martin L. Davey and Earl D. Bloom, Democrats. For U. S. Senator, Senator S. D. Fess, of Yellow Springs, C. T. Marshall and Charles Dick, Republicans and Charles L. Wharton, Senator Cy Locher and Thomas S. Wright, Democrats, were listed as satisfactory.
